Life:

Friends and relatives of the Adelphi Academy pupils who are members of the Adelphi Dramatic Association, in sufficient numbers to comfortably fill the school assembly, attended a performance by the Dramatic Association last night of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream." They enjoyed the performance hugely, finding much in it to call forth applause and laughter, and showered hand claps on the various members of the cast as these found opportunity for individual lines that are in common use.

Excerpt:

Miss Lillian Levermore, who from her name should be the daughter of the head of the college, was a very handsome Helena; Hamilton H. Salmon, jr., was a tall and becoming Duke of Athens; Lillian A. Wilson was a diffident Hippolyta; Allen B. Whitaker was a roaring and lusty Lysander; Percy B. Collison was a very, very tragic Demetrius; Marjory A. Byrne was a most pitiful, lost Hermia; Eleanor L. Sackett was a very material Oberon; Marion E. Cox was a disillusioning Titania; Mary C. Catlin was a more or less rheumatic Robin Goodfellow, and William J. Blackman was a pretty low brow kind of a Egeus, with a voice like the confidential murmur of a strained hawser. Herman H. von Glahn was an intrusive Bottom, the Weaver, and the comedy parts in general were well taken. Harold E. Smith was Snug

MONEY MADE ON YEAR BOOK.,

Adelphi Academy Makes Fine Record on Adelphic.

Editors of the 1911 Adelphic, the year book of Adelphi Academy, are gathering their material together for the publication which will appear in June. Last year, under the business management of Lawrence Bromley Williams, over $65 was cleared. This was turned over to the school, to be used with other funds for the purchase of a trophy cabinet for the high school department. This year the staff aims to surpass this showing.

The board of editors is composed of the following: Donald Braislin and Miss Marie Graff, editors-in-chief; Louis Rohland, Edward Behre and the Misses Helen E. Behrens and Eleanor Sackett, assistant editors; Cornelius Middleton, business manager; William J. Blackman and Alwin Schwab, assistant business managers. The art editors will be chosen by competition. Each contestant will be required to submit six drawings suitable for the book. The results will be announced March 15.

The Debutantes' Ball.

Ever since last August, when the plans for the Débutantes' Ball on New Year's Eve were first divulged, there has been the keenest interest displayed by the younger set in this original idea which was put in motion by Mrs. E. Dwight Church, Jr., Mrs. Edward Hinman and Mrs. James Guthrie Shaw. They builded even better than they knew for this winter, for the first time in years, there was no Assembly Ball so the Débutantes' Ball provided the brilliant function without which no débutante's first season is quite complete. To the regret of everyone Miss Mary Sanger, who was one of the fifteen débutantes giving the dance, and her parents, Colonel and Mrs. William Cary Sanger, who a few weeks before the event entertained at a dance all who were invited to the ball, were not present. Owing to the death of Mrs. Sanger's cousin, Miss Grace Dodge of Manhattan, they did not attend. With but this single change of plans the affair went through to a brilliant success. In proportions and coloring the banquet hall of the Academy of Music is quite perfect and floral decorations in the room add nothing to it, a fact appreciated by the patronesses. Consequently the cool gray walls made the deep-toned gowns glow in all their color. At midnight the waiters appeared with glasses and in a few moments everyone was drinking the health of the New Year.

Many Out of Town Guests.

A noticeable feature of the ball was the presence of many men from Manhattan and out of town, which added greatly to the interest of the occasion. These included Mr. Dunbar Adams, Mr. Allen Adriance, Mr. Minton Cronkhite, Mr. Elmo Gridley, the Messrs. Theodore and Ryland Sizer, Mr. Carl Springer, Mr. Maurice Wolfe of Manhattan; Mr. Wellesley Brown, Mr. Robinson Hyde, Mr. Edwin H. Adriance of Englewood, N.J.; Mr. Lewis Beatty of Collingdale, Pa.; Mr. Donald Blodget of Bridgeport, Conn.; Mr. Howard Smithers of Great Neck, L.I.; Mr. Warren Butler of Plainfield, N.J.; Mr. Clifford Wheeler of Stamford, Conn.; Mr. Donald H. Cowl of Great Neck, L.I.; Mr. Edward de Selding of Summit, N.J.; Mr. Frank W. Dyer and Mr. Goulding Wight of Montclair, N.J.; Mr. Stephen Gates of Locust Valley, L.I.; Mr. Norman Lee Johnson of Elizabeth, N.J.; Mr. Erhman Mitchell, Jr., of Harrisburg, Pa., and Mr. George Miller of Hartsdale, N.Y. Miss Anna Cronkhite, who is a cousin of Miss Lois Minton, one of the débutantes giving the ball; Miss J. Leslie Johnston, Miss Grace Lee Middleton, Miss Christina Nichols and Miss Bertha Shults were among the Manhattan girls who came over for the dance. Besides the débutantes acting as hostesses for the affair, Miss Cecelia Brewster, Miss Marjory Church, Miss Helen Carscallen Clarke, Miss Drusilla Lanier Cravens, Miss Agnes de Selding, Miss Miriam Dow, Miss Elinor Gates, Miss Helen Hinman, Miss Ruth Jenks, Miss Marguerite Mallett, Miss Lois Minton, Miss Elizabeth Mur-

23 MADISON MEN TO TAKE UP FLYING

Wm. J. Blackman of Brooklyn
Is Among Number Accepted by Government.

TO GO TO ITHACA AT ONCE.

Plans Under Way to Increase Area of Barracks for Artillery Training.

(Special to The Eagle.)

Madison Barracks, N. Y., June 23—Among the twenty-three reserve student officers at Madison Barracks, who today received notification of their acceptance by the Government for special training in the Aviation Corps was William J. Blackman of Brooklyn. Mr. Blackman has been a member of Infantry Company No. 3. He decided to make the change a couple of weeks ago. The "lucky" ones, as they are being classed at the reserve camp, are to leave here tomorrow evening and report to the commander of the ground station maintained by the Government at Ithaca.

Arrangements are under way whereby the Government plans to double the training grounds at Madison Barracks. Approximately fifty acres of adjacent territory are to be taken over for the training of the field artillery reserve students and for general maneuvering purposes.

Army orders today designate a battalion of New York State field artillery, formerly a part of the Sixty-fifth New York Infantry, for training service at Madison Barracks. The field artillery battalion is made up of approximately 500 men with full field equipment and 160 officers. Their equipment is said to be made up principally of three-inch guns, caissons and other light pieces. This battalion had a great deal of experience on the Mexican border and is conceded among the best of guardsmen in this branch of the service. As soon as they arrive here they are to make up their camp on one of the new parcels of land to be taken over for training purposes. No new buildings are to be constructed there, it was announced.

With every facility at their command for giving expert instruction the camp authorities believe that the four student officer field batteries will have at least a working idea of the handling of field pieces at the end of the present camp.

The reserve students were allowed their usual half holiday. Many of the candidates enjoyed a trip to the Thousand Islands on the steamer Thousand Islander.

President Rush Rhees of Rochester University arrived at Madison Barracks this afternoon and will confer diplomas on nearly 200 undergraduates who left that college when the camp opened. The Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woolfkin, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York, will be the principal speaker at both morning and evening services conducted at the camp Y. M. C. A.

First Lieutenants James L. Edwards, Frank W. Fisher and William J. Blackman, Aviation Section, Signal Reserve Corps, are assigned to active duty and will report to the commanding officer, aviation general supply depot, Garden City, for duty.

Brooklyn Airmen Aboard?

The three aero squadrons on board the Tuscania are believed to have included a number of men who were trained at the Mineola Aviation Field, and it is thought quite likely that a number of Long Island men were with these units.

At all event a number of Brooklyn and Long Island men were members of these units some time ago and are said to have left this country.

Sea Cliff, L. I., was in a state of great anxiety today over the safety of several young aviators who were said to be with the 213th Aero Squadron. The boys from Sea Cliff and the neighboring villages are:

Fred Chace.
Frederick Chellborg.
Robert Kissam.
Harold Stevenson.
Kenneth Kay.
Richard Dreyer Jr.
Henry Allen Olsen.

Other boys from Brooklyn and Long Island are:

Winfield Norris of 235 Van Buren street.

Lafayette Rothsteen Jr. of 275 Van Buren street.

George Ludlam, Oyster Bay.

John Martin, Mineola.

Douglas East, Mineola.

George Hammer, Glen Cove.

John Eberhard, Mineola.

William J. Blackman, 519 Clinton avenue.

Frederick Lampe, 1290 President street.

William J. Blackman, who is in the 158th Aero Squadron, is a well-known graduate of Adelphi and Cornell and was famous as an athlete at both institutions. He received his training at Madison Barracks and was accepted by the Government for special training in the Aviation Corps.

Frederick Chellborg is the son of former Postmaster C. Stafford Chellborn of Sea Cliff.

Harold Stevenson and Lafayette Rothsteen are both members of the Rev. Dr. Carson's church in Brooklyn and Henry Olsen is a member of St. Luke's Episcopal Church of Glen Cove.

Winfield Norris is 26 years old and a graduate of Peekskill Military Academy. He is the son of James Norris of 703 Greene avenue and the brother of Leonard Norris, who is now a student aviator at Cornell University.

Frederick Lampe was educated at Manual Training High School and was in the insurance business when he enlisted. He was made a corporal after three weeks training and when he sailed was in line for further promotion.

Thomas J. Ryan of 123 Clinton avenue was in the Twentieth Engineers, Company F, and may also have been on board. He was working in the Forestry Department of the State of California and enlisted in that State.

LT. BLACKMAN HOME; BOTH LEGS BROKEN IN AIR CRASH, MENDING

Brooklyn Aviator, Injured in July, Reaches Brooklyn on Leave of Absence.

Lieut. William Jackson Blackman, son of Dr. William W. Blackman of 519 Clinton ave., is back home from France, recuperating from the fracture of both legs in an aviation accident on July 11 of this year. Except for the fact that he is still hobbling on crutches, young Blackman is in the best of health and with only one thing to worry about—that he may not be fully recovered in time to get back to the front before the war ends. He arrived at an Atlantic port on October 21, and was sent to a hospital at Colonia, near Rahway, N. J. Last Friday he obtained a ten-day leave of absence and came home immediately.

Lieut. Blackman has a host of friends in Brooklyn, few of whom have not been around to his father's home on Clinton ave. to get his story of the big doings in the aviation camps in France. He graduated from Adelphi and then went to Cornell, finishing in 1917 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Immediately after graduation from college he entered the ground school for aviation at Cornell and finished his work there on August 18, 1917, after which he went to Mount Clemens and then to Mineola for the finishing touches to his training for the air service.

On June 24 of this year Lieut. Blackman sailed on the Tuscania, which was torpedoed and sunk on February 5.

On July 11, 1918, a Nieuport machine, with Lt. Blackman at the wheel, left the ground at a French aviation field and had not risen to more than 100 feet before it shot to the ground and was reduced to a mass of junk. He was pinned beneath the motor and when rescued it was found that his right leg had been broken below the knee and the left leg fractured at the knee.

The young lieutenant, 25 years old and of fine physique, hobbled into the reception room of his father's home this morning to see an Eagle reporter. He said that while recuperating he was told by a member of the Royal Air Force that the Americans and Australians made the best aviators this war has produced.

Lt. Blackman has no plans for the immediate future. He wants to get back into the fighting before it is all over.

WOUNDED, DEGREE UNDETERMINED.
Lieut. WILLIAM J. BLACKMAN,
319 Clinton avenue.

"Brooklyn Standard Union" Wednesday 11 Dec 1918 p 9

The names of four Brooklyn, L. I., lieutenants appear on today's official casualty list, but announcement has already been made in The Eagle concerning all of them. News of the death on October 6 of Lt. John Edward Mitchell was published on November 10. The story of Lt. Henry C. Fowler of 324 New York ave., who was wounded late in the summer, appeared on September 4. Lt. William J. Blackman, an aviator, wounded on July 11, and now at a hospital in Colonia, N. J., was mentioned on October 31, and the circumstances accompanying the wounding on November 6 of Lt. Lawrence F. Scanlan of 319 Oceanview ave., Woodhaven, appeared on December 4.

Miss Helena Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Alexander P. Robinson, of Chestnut Hill, will leave tomorrow for Nova Scotia to join her mother and sisters, Miss Catharine Lucie Robinson and Miss Caroline Robinson, who are occupying their summer home at Chester. Miss Marion Wurts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy Wurts, of 2134 Pine street, will leave on August 1 to spend several weeks with Mrs. Robinson and her daughters. The marriage of Miss Catharine Robinson to Mr. William Jackson Blackman, son of Dr. W. W. Blackman, of Brooklyn, will take place the middle of September at the summer home of the bride's mother.

"Philadelphia Inquirer" Monday 30 Jun 1924 p 4

Notable among the weddings scheduled for the early autumn is that of Miss Catharine Lucie Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Alexander P. Robinson, of 326 Mermaid lane, Chestnut Hill, to Mr. William Jackson Blackman, son of Dr. W. W. Blackman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., which will take place on Saturday, September 20, in St. Stephen's Church, Chester, Nova Scotia. Miss Helena F. Robinson, sister of the bride, will act as maid of honor, and the best man will be Mr. Francis Sheets, of New York. A small reception will follow at the summer home, of the bride's mother at Chester.

Blackman-Mangan

The wedding of Miss Joanna Elizabeth Mangan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Mangan, of "The Chimneys," Villanova, to Mr. Jackson Farr Blackman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Blackman, of Swarthmore, took place yesterday in the rectory of St. Madeleine Sophie Church, Germantown. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock, with Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, president of Villanova College, officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, made with a heart-shaped neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt which flared to form the train. An applique of seed pearls trimmed the dress. She wore her mother's veil of Brussels lace, which extended the full length of the train and she carried a bouquet of white camellias and stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Ann Mangan was maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were Miss Lora Blackman, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Joanne Callahan, of Washington; Miss Margaret Emily Littlefield and Miss Nancy Sinkler. The attendants were gowned alike in ankle length frocks of white nylon net, featuring shirred bodices and stoles of the net. Their headdresses were bandeaux of red carnations and they carried bouquets of red carnations surrounded by magnolia foliage and tied with red ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Mangan's choice was an ankle-length gown of royal blue, worn with a matching bolero and a small fitted flesh colored felt cap. Flesh colored accessories and a corsage of pale pink camellias completed the attire.

The bridegroom's mother chose a dark blue gown, with white gardenias.

William Osler acted as best man and the ushers were Martin Blair, of Old Lyme, Conn.; Gordon Douglas, Stephen Spencer and Thomas J. Mangan, 3d, brother of the bride.

Mildred Lissauer had created a special world for her family and friends at the house. Her intent, above all, was to make it "spectacular," according to her son, Ted Lissauer, above, shown in one of the bedrooms at the house. Louisville businessman and inventor Arthur W. Lissauer, far left photo, purchased the house in 1921 and was joined there by his second wife, Mildred, at left, in 1931. The house, which is now for sale, was featured in The Courier-Journal in the 1940s and in House Beautiful in 1954.

The Potter family fortunes had changed abruptly in Bowling Green when Mildred was about 12, after her father's bank failed in the early 1900s, said Ted Lissauer, 63, the only son from her first marriage.

She was working as a secretary in Louisville when she met Arthur Lissauer, a rare-book collector and owner of Louisville Drying Machinery Co. Lissauer made his fortune, in part, by developing a highly successful cattle feed made from the dried peelings and pulp of citrus fruits.

Jackson Farr Blackman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Blackman, of Chestnut Hill, took place yesterday afternoon, with a 4 o'clock ceremony in the Swarthmore Presbyterian Church. The officiating clergymen were the Rev. Joseph P. Bishop and the Rev. H. Lawrence Whittemore.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Dudley Giles, was gowned in Italian silk. Made with a fitted long sleeved bodice, trimmed with Alencon lace, the model featured a bouffant skirt, ending in a short train. Her short tulle veil was arranged with a cap headdress of Alencon lace and satin, and she carried a bouquet of white violets, edged with tulle and tied with satin streamers caught with violets.

BRIDAL PARTY

Miss Patricia Giles who acted as maid of honor for her sister wore a dress of powder blue satin, fashioned with a tight fitting bodice, and a waltz length skirt trimmed at the back with godets of silk in a deeper shade of blue. With this went a small hat of powder blue satin and she carried a bouquet of Parma violets.

Mrs. Giles chose a graceful model of beige and brown chiffon, with a small hat of beige satin, and a corsage of yellow orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore navy blue satin, with a hat of the same color and a cluster of rose pink camellias.

Mr. Blackman acted as best man for his son and the ushers were Mr. Leroy Anderson, of Latrobe; Mr. Edward Fox, Mr. Donald Guthrie and Mr. Stephen Spencer, all of Swarthmore.

A reception at the Swarthmore Woman's Club followed the ceremony.

The first section of the Brinton Lea development, which includes 20 houses, is now under construction at Brinton Lake and Glen Mills Roads.

This week, the township supervisors gave conditional approval to plans for the second and third sections.

In all, the development is to include about 55 homes.

The 100-acre tract is being developed by Jackson F. Blackman, of Brinton Lea, president of the J. F. Blackman Co.

Blackman has an option on 105 acres adjoining the development site.

Plans call for the construction of a water plant on this land, the former DiNunno property.

The Community Water Service, Inc., a Baltimore concern, will operate the water works. The firm also operates water works in the Baltimore area.

Officials of this firm had applied to the State Public Utilities Commission for permission to operate in the township. This permission was granted Monday.

Some residents of the township had protested the application at a public hearing in December in Media.

Some residents felt the water level of existing wells would be lowered. The concern will get its water from deep wells.

The water plant will include a pump, pressure tanks and a reservoir for one day's supply of water for the development. The equipment will be housed in a 24 by 40 foot building.

The supervisors approved the plans for the second and third sections of the development provided the drainage is satisfactory. They also stipulated that the specifications be submitted for a road in the section and a bond be posted to insure the construction and maintenance of the road.

Two more Delaware County men have been named division chairmen of the 1967 United Fund Torch Drive.

Stephen S. Gardner, of Old Batimore Pike and Wawa Road, Chester Heights, president of Girard Trust Bank, Philadelphia, will be chairman of the corporate gifts solicitation campaign.

Gardner will handle Division B, which includes 54 of the Greater Philadelphia area's major food concerns, packaging and transportation firms, laundries and restaurants.

Jackson F. Blackman, 15 Stoney Ridge Road, Thornbury, a Delaware County, land developer, will be chairman of the drive in Delaware County's central-western area.

The district includes Springfield, Swarthmore, Morton, Ridley Township, Rutledge, Media, Upper Providence, Rose Valley, Middletown, Nether Providence, Aston, Thornbury, Concord and Birmingham.

Land Developer To Head UF Drive

JACKSON F. BLACKMAN
... appointed

The appointment of Jackson F. Blackman, independent land developer and water company owner as head of the Western Delaware County Division of the business and industry section in next fall's United Fund Torch Drive has been announced.

Blackman, whose business and residence are at Concordville, is a member of the Concord-Thornbury Lions Club and has been a member of the board of directors of Camp Sunshine.

He has been active in the last three United Fund Torch Drives. He was division chairman in Western Delaware County during the 1966 campaign, and headed the Delaware County Central - Western Zone for 1967.

The business and industry section solicits funds from nearly 200 business and industrial firms in the county with 25 to 300 employees.

In last year's campaign, the business and industry section raised $110,000 of the $300,000 total contributed by Delaware County residents.

Two hundred fifty agencies and services will benefit from the Torch Drive, including 18 in the county.

They include the Family Service of Delaware County, Community Nursing Service, Child Guidance Clinic of Delaware County, Boy Scouts of America-Valley Forge Council, and the Delaware County Child Care Center Association.

Contractor Captures 2 In Theft

A Landenberg contractor captured two men early Sunday morning as they were apparently taking construction supplies from an unfinished apartment complex, police said.

Jackson F. Blackman, contractor for Heritage Village Apartments, Gypsy Hill Road, Landenberg, armed with a pistol, held Robert William Densmore, 35, and David Howell, 28, both of Elkton R5, Md. as neighbors called Avondale State Police.

Police, who called both men, "veteran thieves," said Blackman made his capture at 12:30 a.m. Sunday. Police said the two apparently backed a trailer into the construction area and had loaded seven one-gallons cans of wood stain and other construction equipment.

The two were charged with burglary and larceny, receiving stolen goods, conspiracy and possession of burglary tools before District Justice Eugene diFilippo, Kennett Square.

In lieu of bail, they were sent to Chester County Prison.

DR. W. W. BLACKMAN DIES; DIRECTOR OF HOSPITAL

Dr. William Waldo Blackman, one of Brooklyn's oldest general practitioners and medical director of Prospect Heights Hospital, died yesterday at his home, 519 Clinton Ave. A native of Bridgewater, N. Y., he was 87, and had practiced here for more than 65 years.

Dr. Blackman was graduated from New York Homeopathic Medical College in 1877. A professor in the anatomy department of the college in the early years of his practice, he became nationally known in the field of homeopathy. Three years ago the college named its new department of anatomy at Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals in his honor.

Dr. Blackman served his internship at Prospect Heights Hospital, and during the years has been attending physician in many borough hospitals.

He has been vice president of the board of trustee of New York Homeopathic Medical College since 1932 and formerly headed Kings County Homeopathic Medical Society.

Dr. Blackman's hobby was drawing and painting. He made more than 250 large paintings of the human anatomy, which is considered the best single collection of such charts in the country.

He was opposed to specialization in medicine by young physicians, and frequently expressed the view that the general practitioner was the "most important single factor in the practice of medicine."

Dr. Blackman leaves a son, William J. Blackman. Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday at 2:30 p.m., with the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, rector of the Community Church of Manhattan, officiating. Burial will be in the family plot in Waterville, N. Y.

ELINOR BLACKMAN, 50, DIES; BORO WELFARE LEADER

Funeral services for Elinor Blackman, 50, assistant executive director of the Jewish Social Service Association for the last 22 years, who died yesterday in her home, 519 Clinton Ave., will be held at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

Miss Blackman was a lifelong resident of Brooklyn and had been active in social work since she was graduated from Vassar College in 1914. She started with the Charity Organization Society, now part of the Community Service Society and during the first World War held a supervisory position in the Home Service Section of the American Red Cross.

In 1920 she became associated with the Jewish Social Service Association, the family welfare agency of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies of New York City.

The agency was then known as the United Hebrew Charities. Her study of its work played an important part in its reorganization in 1926 for the broader role of family welfare service.

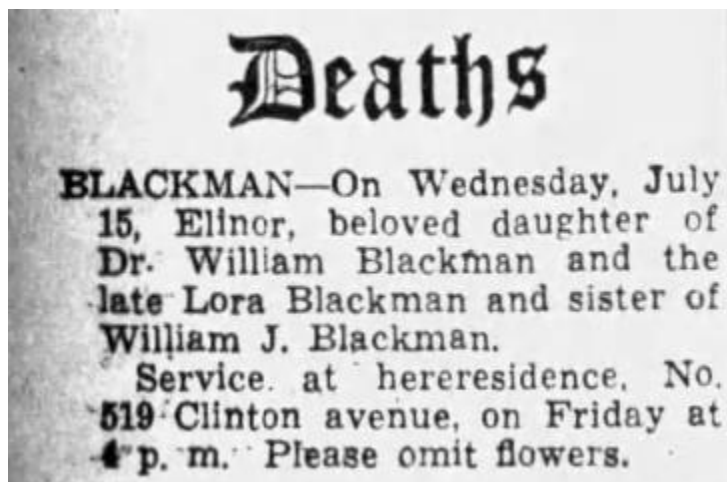

In 1939, Miss Blackman took a leave of absence from the Jewish Social Service Association to go abroad as a member of a unit sponsored by the National Refugee Service, the International Migration Service and the American Friends Service Committee, whose mission was to speed the release of refugee children from Europe. This unit, despite unfavorable events and the outbreak of hostilities, accomplished its purpose and arranged for the transportation here of numbers of refugee children who had responsible welfare agencies ready to provide new homes for them in America.

Miss Blackman was a member of the American Association of Social Workers and the Family Welfare Association of America. She was active in the affairs of the Welfare Council of New York and was the chairman of its Selective Service Committee. She was for 10 years chairman of the board of the Social Work Vocational Bureau, an employment bureau for professional social workers. For many years she served as chairman of the Vassar Alumnae Iad committee.

She is survived by her father, Dr. William Waldo Blackman, for 60 years a physician in Brooklyn, and a brother, William J. Blackman of Swarthmore, Pa.
