LIVINGSTON DENIES STORY.

(Special Telegram)

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 26.—Robert Livingston, of Portland, denies the report sent out from Butte to the effect that he together with Thomas F. Binnie and William Binnie have invested in lands in Bitter Root valley to the amount of $100,000. In the report Mr. Livingston is said to be a Chicago capitalist. In reality he is from Portland, and is the general manager of the Coast of Scottish American Mortgage company. Thomas F. Binnie is the general manager of the company at the home office in Edinburgh, Scotland. H. S. Balston, of Chicago, is with the party in the general inspector of the whole United States. Mr. Livingston says they have made no such purchase in the Bitter Root.

MONTANA STATE BANK

Fallon, Mont., Jan. 6, 1914.

MR. J. D. SCANLAN,
Miles City, Mont.

Dear sir: In reply to your favor of the fourth inst., I have to say that this bank would absolutely REFUSE to accept as security a mortgage on land on which patent had not been issued but for which register's final proof certificate was held, if any circumstance was found to exist whereby it would appear that final proof had not been in compliance with the letter of the law in every respect.

Yours very truly, WILLIAM BINNIE, Cashier.

ILLEGAL FINAL PROOF PUBLICATIONS

HAS AFFECTED THE TITLE OF THE
HOMESTEADERS, AND BANKERS
REFUSE TO LOAN MONEY

The issue of the Miles City Star, dated January 11, contains some enlightening communications from bankers in eastern Montana on the question of the publication of final entry notices by homesteaders. The law provides that these notices shall be published in a paper nearest the land. At the Miles City, Great Falls and Lewistown land offices the law has not been obeyed. Notices have been published in papers owned by politicians or in which the land office officials are financially interested. In the Miles City office the law has been violated in favor of the American. In Lewistown, the Fergus County Democrat, the control of which is owned by Congressman Tom Stout, has been the beneficiary, and in Great Falls, the Rocky Mountain Husbandman, owned by Register Sutherlin, has been the recipient of these illegal favors.

The question has been raised that the illegal publication has affected the title of homesteaders and bankers have refused to loan money in case of publications made illegally, that is in a paper which is not nearest the land. Defenders of the "graft" have made light of the position of the bankers and have sought to have it believed that there was nothing in the allegation. But the Star has substantiated the charge by getting from a number of bankers statements on the subject, which it is publishing. Among these is one from the Montana State Bank at Fallon. William Binnie, cashier of that bank, writes to the Star:

In reply to your favor of the fourth inst., I have to say that this bank would absolutely refuse to accept as security a mortgage on land on which patent had not been issued but for which register's final proof certificate was held, if any circumstance was found to exist whereby it would appear that final proof had not been in compliance with the letter of the law in every respect.

Instead of attempting to defend the land office officials who have violated the law, the thing for their friends to do is to see that they became law-abiding, and follow the advice of Senator Walsh. — Daily Record.

PROPOSE CREATION OF "TERRY" COUNTY

WOULD CARVE GOOD SIZED STRIP
FROM DAWSON. FALLON BUSINESS MEN PROTEST.

County division is a subject which is once more in the limelight in Glendive, for within the last few days events which have to do with the proposed creation of the county of "Terry" have moved forward with some speed and, if existing indications are to be relied upon the county is destined to be officially formed within a comparatively short time.

As was set forth briefly last week in The Review, the new county will be carved from portions of Custer, Dawson and Fallon, and the seat of government will be at Terry. The plan for creation was set in motion to head off and defeat one which was being arranged at Ismay, and the Terryites are confident that they will succeed in their endeavors.

It is understood that the figures compiled by the proponents of the new county, show that it would start with an assessed valuation of about $5,500,000.

The original lines drawn by the divisionists, included approximately 28 townships in Dawson county, and the eastern boundary started in the vicinity of Fallon and ran, with a slight deviation in the beginning, due north to the correction line; thence west to range 44 and south to the southern boundary of Dawson. It is expected, however, that the division committee, and the local Chamber of Commerce, will get together on a compromise the result of which will mean the exclusion of a considerable part of the territory first proposed to be taken.

So far the petition for the formation of the county has not been filed with the board of commissioners, but it has been circulated and it is reported that it bears the names of fully 90 per cent of the qualified electors of the territory which it is planned to include within the borders of the new county.

It was reported here yesterday that the people of Fallon are strongly in favor of "Terry," but a telephone message from Charles Hanson, a prominent merchant of that town, to President Hughes of the Chamber of Commerce, emphatically denied that such is the case, and Mr. Hanson followed his verbal declaration up with the following communication.

"Chamber of Commerce, Glendive, Gentlemen—As I told you over the telephone this morning, almost every one in Fallon is against this Terry county division proposition.

"The business men of Fallon had a meeting last night and concluded to send a protest to the editor of our paper of which. Am enclosing a copy."

The protest reads:

"We, the undersigned business men of Fallon, and other citizens of the vicinity, wish to express our disapproval of the action of the Forum in regard to the county division question—We are against it. E. E. Alair, Chas. Hanson, Carl Anderson, W. W. Hicks, William Binnie, Max Schultze, Olav Eikland, Edward Weisner, A. P. Engebretson, S. L. Nichols, W. F. Parks, John Van, John F. Gilman, T. P. Allen, Sam Lee, A. G. Clifford, Louis Weisner, Chas. Renn, Louis Maloney, O. C. Gibson and C. T. Smith."

"Dawson County Review" (Glendive MT) Thursday 10 Sep 1914 p 1

NEW TERRY COUNTY TO FILE PETITION

That the proposed new Terry County is no joke and that County Division Butcher Booth otherwise known as Attorney Ed. Booth, is in dead earnest about taking another big hunk out of good old Dawson county, is evidenced by the fact that within a day or two, and while the county commissioners are in session, the petition for the proposed county will be filed and the machinery of county division, under the poorest excuse of a county division law ever devised, will be put in motion

In order to make the fight interesting, some certain party or parties have gotten twenty-one business men and residents in the town of Fallon to sign a letter which was sent to C. R. Marks, Editor of the Fallon Forum, disapproving of his action in favoring the creation of the proposed county.

The fact that the first petition will be filed with the Dawson County commissioners is construed as meaning that the greater part of the proposed county is to be taken from Dawson. From all accounts the boundary lines will run almost due north, as close to Glendive as the law allows—18 miles—and then take in such places as Lindsay, Union, etc., leaving us merely a narrow strip of territory running north-west up toward Red Rock Springs.

Mr. Wm. Binnie, a prominent man of Fallon is in town to-day, showing a copy of the letter denouncing Editor Marks for his action in favoring the proposed county.

Ed. Booth is also in town and will no doubt make things interesting for everybody concerned.

No matter what nigger is in the woodpile, it is the consensus of opinion that Glendive should go after this thing tooth and nail, and as soon as the petition is filed and published according to law, we should if necessary, put fifty automobiles in the field, getting withdrawal signatures enough to forever put the quietus on such an absurd division of what remains of Dawson, as is proposed by the county division agitators.

PRAIRIE COUNTY ORGANIZED, THE VOTE BEING 753 YES TO 63 NO

Prairie County—the fortieth sub-division of the commonwealth of Montana.

Thus has ended a battle begun three month or more ago at the request of the people of Fallon, Mildred and Dawson county by Terry.

On last Tuesday out of a total vote of 831 in the proposed territory only 63 voters registered their disapproval of the new county, 31 of them being from the Fallon voting precinct, where Charles Hanson and William Binnie have waged an unceasing war. But against this was the vote of 753 good citizens who believed that the establishment of Prairie county was necessary to the peace and prosperity of this section.

On the part of Terry the division campaign has been clean—every advocate being instructed by the board of managers to adhere strictly to the facts, as these were sufficiently convincing to the people without resort to tricks and trades. We of Terry are naturally jubilant over the outcome, and in behalf of each citizen of the community we thank every friend of the movement throughout the new county for the services rendered—for the hearty cooperation met with upon every hand by those in charge of the campaign.

Few counties have started business with a better set of officers than Prairie, and while some good men were defeated, it is true that only good men were elected. Politics cut no figure in the election—the only idea seeming to be the election of men who would start the county out in a business way and avoid the pitfalls which have too often burdened the people with excessive taxes without corresponding benefits. Three better business men could not be selected than the county commissioners, and we feel safe in saying that every item of expense will be closely scrutinized before it is authorized. To these officers fall the most difficult role in the administration of affairs, as they will have charge of the finances of the county, the roads of the county, the officers of the county and any improvement sought for. We know they will do their duty because they have been successful in their private affairs and we feel they will be equally cautious in county matters.

The honor of casting the first vote from the female ranks is accorded to Mrs. Paul Renn of Cabin creek. She is in the Fallon county portion of Prairie county, and was one of the strongest advocates of the new county in that section. The polls are at the Renn home, and just as the clock struck 8 she asked for a ballot and in less than half a minute had it safely deposited in the box. The first woman vote for Prairie county and the first woman vote for officers in the state of Montana.

The first vote cast in Terry was that of the editor of the Tribune, and the second that of Mrs. McDowell, she being the first lady to vote in Terry and easily second in the county—and you may know that both votes were for the establishment of Prairie county.

The vote will be canvassed by the county commissioners of Dawson county on Feb. 4 at Glendive, and as soon as the returns reach Helena Gov. Stewart will no doubt issue his proclamation formally establishing the county, and the senator, representative and county officers will take their oaths and begin their duties.

We want it distinctly understood that the people of the new county have no hard feelings toward a large majority of those that fought the establishment of the county, believing they did so in good faith and with a mistaken idea of the consequences to follow its creation. Only that certain class which attempted to defeat the will of the people by unfair methods will be remembered by the people—and it seems that the result is sufficient to cause their own consciences to condemn them.

Among the several telegrams which have come to the division committee congratulating them on the successful outcome of the election we cannot refrain from publishing the following:

 Helena, Mont., Jan. 27.
 E. H. McDowell, Terry:
 Please convey to the boys locally and to the people generally our hearty congratulations on the creation of Prairie, our baby county. I see where all trains stop at Terry.
 W. J. Kelley,
 J. C. Fillenworth,
 E. S. Booth.

As an evidence of their unabated interest and enthusiasm in the civic and commercial betterment work of the Glendive Chamber of Commerce, nearly one hundred members were in attendance at the annual meeting of that organization held at the Dawson County club Tuesday evening.

Excerpt:

Fallon Wants Credit.

William Binnie, the Fallon banker and commercial club officer, was present and reported that although the business men of Fallon had contributed the sum of $175 to the Glendive subscription fund, this fact did not appear in the official guides of the National Parks Highway association. President Shabel, on behalf of the chamber, stated that Fallon's contribution had been duly and fully credited in the chamber's report made to the Red Trail people. He promised, however, to call their attention to the matter to the end that the generous and progressive Prairie county town would be properly recognized in any official literature issued by the association in the future.

WILL VISIT OLD HOME IN SCOTLAND

William Binnie, cashier of the Montana State bank at Fallon, was in Terry Monday on business, and gave the Tribune office a pleasant call. He says that Fallon is forging ahead, and that the merchants and business men are well satisfied with the excellent trade enjoyed during the past year.

Mr. Binnie informed us that he would leave within the next month for a four-month visit to his old home in Scotland, saying that he had not seen his parents for more than four years. He has been cashier of the Fallon bank since it was instituted in 1912, and the following figures will show how it has grown under his management, and no doubt convinced the directors that a merited vacation had been earned:

Dec. 31, 1912, deposits....	$39,263.37
Dec. 31, 1913, deposits....	51,145.48
Dec. 31, 1914, deposits....	64,402.63

For a town the size of Fallon the showing that the bank has made during the four years since establishing speaks well for the solid financial condition of the people of that section of Prairie county, especially when the fact is known that the Fallon bank ranks as the second bank as to resources in the county.

It is always a pleasure to note the prosperity of any institution or community in Prairie county, and we congratulate Fallon on having within its district a clientele which can so handsomely support its bank and business men.

The many friends of Mr. Binnie hope that he may have a pleasant journey, as the time spent among his old friends and relations will no doubt be greatly enjoyed.

William Binnie, cashier of the Fallon bank, left last week for Scotland, where he will visit his relatives for several months. Here's hoping that his ship doesn't run into a mine or a sub.

How ironic, as William dies as a result of torpedoing by a submarine in Feb 1918 –

FALLON BANKER WEDS HOMESTEADER

MISS INEZ McNAUGHTON AND WILLIAM BINNIE MARRIED AT CHICAGO.

News received here Monday of the marriage of Miss Inez McNaughton to William Binnie, says the Fallon Forum. This pleasing information came as a surprise to the many friends of both the contracting parties, as Mr. Binnie had ostensibly left for a trip to Scotland, the previous Tuesday.

The pretty wedding ceremony was conducted by Dr. J. I. Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, at high noon Friday, March the third nineteen sixteen.

The newlyweds will proceed to New York City and from there book passage for Liverpool via one of the American line steamships. Their destination is Edinburgh, Scotland, where they will make an extended visit of some months duration with Mr. Binnies parents and relatives.

The Forum joins with the community in wishing them every happiness and a bon voyage.

Mr. Hanson has enjoyed a splendid business, especially the past few years since the country has become more settled. He was also, at one time, owner of the Fallon townsite, most of which he disposed of five years ago. He still retains a few lots and only last week purchased the William Binnie home, where he and Mrs. Hanson will make their home, as they do not intend to leave Fallon for some time to come.

WILLIAM BINNIE ON THE TUSCANIA

Lieutenant William Binnie formerly cashier of the Montana State Bank at Fallon, and who resigned that position to enter the United States army, was on the Tuscania when it was torpedoed on the coast of Ireland, and is listed among those Americans who were lost.

The failure of the Montana papers to list him from this state was owing to the fact that he gave Fridley, Minn., as his postoffice address, it being there that Mrs. Binnie is staying while her husband was in the service.

Few men are better known in this part of the state than Mr. Binnie, and especially around Fallon, where he has been a prominent figure since the Montana State bank was organized, he being the first cashier, and to his endeavors to a large extent the bank owes its growth and prosperity.

About two years ago he was married to Miss Inez McNaughton, who resided on a ranch a few miles south of Fallon, after which he spent about six months in Scotland visiting his parents and other relatives. As soon as war was declared he applied for service in the officers' reserve corp and was made a lieutenant, and was at the time of his death on his way to the front for active service.

This is the first Prairie county citizen lost in the war, so far as we have any record.

The deepest sympathy of the people of this section go out to Mrs. Binnie in her bereavement.

"Terry (MT) Tribune" Friday 15 Feb 1918 p 1

Meets Tragic Fate.

It is now believed that 170 Americans lost their lives at the sinking of the transport Tuscania. Of this number seven were Montanans. There seems but little doubt that William Binnie, of Fallon, perished in this disaster, as he was known to have sailed on this boat. Mr. Binnie came to Montana from Minnesota some six years ago and was one of the organizers of the Fallon State Bank, and its cashier until a few months ago, when he resigned and entered the officers training camp, coming out as a Lieutenant. He was a genial character, and had visited Ismay on several occasions. He had a number of acquaintances here who will regret his untimely demise, and sympathize deeply with the young wife left to mourn his loss.

War's Toll of American Officers in First Year

Twenty-seven Killed in France or Lost in Naval Fighting Zone Since Last April, While Many Others Have Died in Training at Home

Four American Army officers were lost when the Tuscania went down, Feb. 5. Captain Philip Vincent Sherman, Engineers' Reserve Corps, casual, had made a reputation in this country as a railway construction engineer. He was a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and had been a member of the engineering department of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. His home at the time of his death was Northfield, Vt., but he had worked for some years in Kansas City, where he was well known as an engineer.

Captain Philip Kilburn Lighthall, E. R. C., U. S. A., casual, was from Syracuse, N. Y., a graduate of the College of Engineering of Syracuse University. After leaving college he engaged for some years in engineering work for Onondaga County and for New York State on the Barge Canal construction. When the United States entered the war he was assistant construction engineer at the Chicago plant of the Semet-Solvay Company. He volunteered for service, was trained at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and later sent to Camp Meade, where he served until ordered to report to the Commanding General in France.

Captain Leo P. Le Bron of Guthrie, Okla., was 43 years old. He volunteered for the army when the United States entered the war because he was a civil engineer of twenty years' experience, who felt that there was work that he could do for his country. He was trained at Fort Leavenworth and then joined the 311th Engineers at Fort Grant, Rockford, whence he was ordered to France on the Tuscania. Captain Le Bron came of a line of soldiers. His grandfather was a Brigadier General, one uncle was a Colonel, and another a Captain. Captain Le Bron, Captain Lighthall, and Captain Sherman are buried on the coast of Scotland. Of First Lieutenant William Binnie, Field Artillery, unassigned, nothing is officially reported except that he has been "missing" since the Tuscania went down. His body was either unrecovered or unidentified. He was from Fallon, Mon.

BANKS OF STATE PLEDGE LOYALTY IN BACKING WAR

Will Strive to Assist Government in Every Way Possible

Resolutions pledging the support of the banking interests of this state to the government in its prosecution of the war are prominent among a long list of resolutions adopted at the fifteenth annual convention of the Montana Bankers' association, which closed its sessions here Saturday. The resolutions in full follow:

Resolutions.

Be It Resolved, by the bankers of the state of Montana, in convention assembled, That we gratefully acknowledge our indebtedness to the bankers and citizens of the city of Billings for their cordial reception to the members of this association, and their highly successful efforts to provide for the comfort and entertainment for our wives and ourselves in a manner that will be long remembered.

Be It Further Resolved, That we hereby express our appreciation of the effective work of the officers and committees of this association during the past year, and their good judgment in arranging a program highly appropriate at this time and so full of inspiration and food for serious thought.

During the year that has passed since we met in the city of Great Falls the hand of death has reached forth and taken from our midst seven members of this association. Five of these had long been residents of the state of Montana, and contributed largely to the growth of the sections of the state in which they resided. We refer to A. L. Babcock, president of the Yellowstone National bank of Billings; S. E. Atkinson, president, and F. P. Atkinson, cashier of the Cascade bank of Great Falls; H. E. Steffins, cashier of the Southern Montana bank of Ennis, and H. B. Tice, formerly vice president of the State bank of Two Dot. Two of our deceased members were much younger men, whose influence had already been largely felt in the business of banking in their respective communities. We refer to J. Stanley Smith, president of the State bank of Two Dot and the State bank of Martinsdale, and William Binnie, cashier of the Montana State bank of Fallon. All of these men were intensely patriotic citizens of this country, devoted to its interests and to the interests of those they served in the capacity of bankers. Only one, however, Lieut. William Binnie of Fallon, had the honor of dying in the military service of the United States. He gained his commission through the officers' training camp at the Presidio and lost his life when the ill-fated Tuscania was torpedoed by an enemy submarine. Now, therefore,

Be It Resolved, That the members of this association, by this means pay respect to the memories of these men and acknowledge their valuable services as bankers and citizens.

Be It Further Resolved, That this association highly commends the patriotic spirit of all bank officers and directors and bank clerks who have offered their services to our beloved country in this great struggle for the freedom of mankind, and hereby express confidence in their ability to do their part in bringing this war against tyranny to a successful conclusion.

Whereas, there have been influences at work in our state during the past two years intended to create ill-feeling on the part of the farmers and others toward the banks and bankers of this state, by creating an impression that the banks are not doing their full duty in promoting the interests of every class of loyal industry carried on within its borders, now, therefore,

Be It Resolved, That the members of this association hereby denounce the leaders responsible for this false and therefore nefarious propaganda, circulated for the obvious purpose of promoting the interests of a few ambitious trouble-makers, who are insulting the intelligence of men engaged in the business of farming in this and other states, by taking advantage of perhaps a few isolated instances of real or imagined grievances and misunderstanding of the nature and limitations of the business they are attacking.

Be It Further Resolved, That the members of this association hereby pledge themselves to continue to do all in their power to foster and protect the farming and business interests of their respective communities and of the nation, with the purpose of assisting such interests in every legitimate manner to bear the burdens imposed by war or drouth. It is obvious that any other course pursued would not only justify the accusation of disloyalty, but would, as any thinking person can clearly see, result in great ultimate injury to the business in which we are engaged. Banks and other business houses prosper only when and not until the country about them has enjoyed a full measure of prosperity.

Be It Further Resolved, That the members of this association continue their generous support of all war activities, and, with even greater effort discourage extravagance in every form, and encourage conservation of food, money and all things vital to the successful prosecution of this war. And we hereby pledge ourselves to continue vigorous campaigns for the sale of thrift and war savings stamps and all future liberty loan issues of the United States government.

Whereas, the next congress of the United States will require to deal with many internal and international questions which fundamentally affect the welfare of the country and of the world.

Be It Further Resolved, That, in the opinion of this organization, it is vitally necessary that its members take active steps toward insuring the nomination in their respective congressional districts of men who, by their high order of ability and character, as well as their undoubted loyalty, are eminently qualified to deal with the tremendous problems which are facing the country.

Be It Further Resolved, That the members of this organization be requested to do everything in their power, from now until the primaries are over, looking towards this end. This action should take the form of speaking with or writing to political leaders, newspaper editors, prominent citizens and others who form public opinion, requesting their active co-operation. Each member of this organization should also induce his friends and acquaintances to take similar steps, with the end that the next or sixty-ninth congress of the United States shall not only be a credit to the common sense and patriotism of the people, but shall also be fully capable of comprehending and dealing with the tremendous problems which will come before it.

Whereas, first, world-wide conditions have imposed tremendous responsibilities upon the commercial, industrial and financial institutions of America.

Second, in order to meet these responsibilities it is necessary to conserve and develop the financial resources to the maximum.

Third, the federal reserve act pro-

Third, the federal reserve act provides a means under which open book accounts covering bonafide sales of goods aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars may hereafter be placed in the form of trade acceptances eligible for rediscount at the federal reserve banks and as a basis for currency issue.

Fourth, the use of trade acceptances in financing both domestic and foreign transactions will facilitate the operation, make collections more certain, reduce the tendency of overbuying and place the credit system on a more firm and stable basis, affording benefits to the buyer, seller and consumer.

Fifth, the strength of our banking position is measured largely by the amount of paper held by the banks that is eligible for rediscount at the federal reserve banks, and

Sixth, the interests and future of America can best be served only when the credits of the country are put into such shape as will enable every dollar to exert its maximum strength and service.

Therefore Be It Resolved, That this association, in convention assembled, hereby recommends to its members and to the commercial and industrial interests of this state the use of the trade acceptance as a means of improving the credit system, strengthening the financial position of the entire country in these war times and placing America in a position where she can in the future make a creditable fight for a fair share of the world's commerce.

Further, in order to expedite in a practical way the introduction of the trade acceptance,

Be It Resolved, That we hereby recommend

First, That trade organizations revise their respective selling terms in all credit transactions, keeping in mind the desirability of uniformity in the various lines;

Second, that bankers and dealers in commercial paper adopt such methods as will insure a wide market and the prompt and economical handling of trade acceptances.

Whereas, prior to the Atlantic City convention of the A. B. A., a special committee on warehouse receipts appointed by that association met with a like committee of the American warehouse men's association, and after considerable labor agreed upon two forms of warehouse receipts, one negotiable, the other non-negotiable, copies of which are herewith presented, and

Whereas, it is advisable that standard forms of warehouse receipts be adopted in every state in the union, now therefore,

Be It Resolved, That the forms herewith presented and hereto attached be recommended by the members of this association for use throughout this state where such receipts are required.

Respectfully submitted,
R. O. KAUFMAN,
E. A. HOWELL,
J. M. KEITH,
Committee.

HOMESTEAD PATENTS READY FOR DELIVERY

We are publishing below a list of parties residing in Prairie county who have proved up on their homesteads and the patent is now in the United States land office at Miles City, Montana. The object of this publication is to notify parties of interest, whether they are the real owners of the land or are interested in the same from a financial standpoint. These patents are ready for delivery, either by the surrender of the final certificate or presenting an affidavit that final certificate issued at the time of proof is lost or mislaid. Wherever, though the patent is being claimed by other than the original owner, or holder of a mortgage, the affidavit should state that same is made because of the financial interest in the land, and evidence of that interest presented. The patent from the U. S. government is the same as a deed and wherever proof is made, the claimant should secure his patent and have it placed of record, in exactly the same manner as he would a deed secured in any other way. The land office at Miles City is anxious to deliver these patents to those rightfully entitled to them, and those in the following list should immediately make out the application for that patent by addressing the U. S. Land Office, Miles City, Montana, together either with the final certificate or an affidavit showing that it has been lost or mislaid.

Senator Thomas Walsh,
Washington, D. C.

Sir:

Some time ago Mr. John Clay of Chicago suggested that I take up with you the matter of passport to Scotland, where I wanted to stay with my husband's mother. At that time, however, my husband was in the army, and after going to Washington and making application, I found that it was useless to go any further. Shortly afterward, in February 1918, my husband (William Binnie, 1st Lt. F. A.) was lost in the sinking of the Tuscania, and since that time both his mother and I have been anxious that I join her. The circumstances of his death, and the long uncertainty and worry (for he was never found), have been particularly trying for us both. His mother is old, and he was her only son, and I want so much to take our little daughter to her while she is still able to enjoy having her.

I am a resident and voter in Montana, as was my husband. He was in the banking business at Fallon until becoming a member of the 2d Officers Training Camp at the Presidio, San Francisco. Although we still have property in Montana, and I call Fallon my permanent address, and take advantage of my voting privilege there, I have no real home there at present, having given up our home at the time war began. I have spent the latter part of the winter here, hoping to get passport before long so that I might go to his mother for a year or two.

My husband and I had passport to Scotland in the spring of 1916, where we spent several months. My application has been on file with the State Department for over a year now. In August, and again in November at which latter time Ex-Atty. General Gregory took the matter up with the Department, the State Department stated that they would issue passport to me whenever I could get the consent of the British Consul, New York City, to visae same if it were issued. In December the British Military Control Board advised me from the British Consulate that they gave me permission to travel to the United Kingdom. Having had the word of the State Department that this was all that was necessary, it seemed reasonable to assume that passport would be granted, but upon sending the letter on to the State Department, and requesting passport, it was refused, saying that no travel could be permitted, that all the shipping space was necessary for sending supplies over, etc. I cannot understand, then, why they put the responsibility for granting passport over to the British, and then upon the latter agreeing to visae same, refuse to consider the application on the former basis. I do know that passenger space aboard ships is not going to be used for shipping, and that a great many people are going across who are not going on government business or on relief work, just as I know that relatives of soldiers did get across even after war had been on for some time.

Attorney General Gregory has been very kind in taking the matter up for me, and the Department promised to let him know as soon as anything could be done, but as he is out of the country, and the Department is too busy to keep all these things in mind with so many applications coming in, I would like you to see what you can do with it. It does seem unfair to be kept waiting until ordinary pleasure travel is thrown open, for this is a necessary trip, not sight-seeing. I have been unable to even get an idea of when I might be able to expect a further consideration of the matter. If it is absolutely necessary to stay over here some months longer, I shall have to make certain business arrangements on this side and put off making those on the other side.

I have written thus fully so you might understand the whole situation. If you can possibly accelerate the process of passport, or even give me some definite information about it, I shall be indeed grateful.

Very respectfully yours

Wm. Binnie

Dear Sirs:

The British Military Mission has now informed me that permission to travel to Scotland will now be granted. I enclose their letter herewith. I had been previously informed by your department that when this permission was granted by the British authorities you would be willing to issue passport, therefore I enclose herewith the three required photographs, together with fee $1.00. I have been unable to find out the exact size of the photographs now required, but I am sure these will do.

I would like to sail about Jan. 20th, and I shall be very glad to have passport issued before that time. As I am not a resident of Minneapolis it would not seem necessary to have passport visaed by consul here. As I understand it, your department sends it on to New York to be visaed, and applicant calls for it there two days before sailing. If you will kindly let me know where to call for passport in New York, and any other instructions that may be necessary, and at what time it will be sent to New York I shall be very grateful.

My address is that given above the date, until December 30th, after which time, up to time of sailing, it will be in care of Brunswick Hotel, Marquette, Michigan.

Thanking you, I am

Very respectfully yours.

SECRETARY OF STATE
JUL 24 1918

Hon. Robert Lansing,
Secretary of State,
Washington, D. C.

Sir:-

Early in January of this year, I applied for passport, at the offices of the Bureau of Citizenship, Department of State Annex, Washington, for the purpose of going to Edinburgh, Scotland, to reside with my husband's mother. My husband and I had previously been given, and used, passport for travelling in Scotland in 1916. My application was, however, rejected because of my husband's being in the service (William Binnie, 1st. Lt. F. A. R. C.).

My reason for going at that time was to make my home with his mother, being able to have no permanent home here on account of the war, and she being alone, in his home, over there. The death of my husband (her only son) on the "Tuscania" in February has made it even more urgent that we be together now. Is it not possible that the Department may act more favorably upon an application at this time? His mother is getting old, and is not in good health, and I should like very much to have her see her son's child (her only grandchild), and to be able to live with her, as she wishes us to, while she can still enjoy having us, which arrangement would also enable me to give all my time to government service of some kind over there.

I shall have to submit application by mail, not being able to make a trip east for the purpose as I did before. Can you advise me at your earliest opportunity, telling me also whether in photograph for passport the child must be photographed with mother, or separately, or at all?

Thanking you, I am

Very respectfully yours,

Inez E. Binnie

A Distinguished Visitor.

Mr. Thomas F. Binnie, of Glasgow, Scotland, who has spent the last month traveling through the fertile lands of the Yazoo Delta, was in the city yesterday and left for home by last night's train, via New York. Mr. Binnie is a large capitalist, and represents a syndicate in Europe, who have valuable investments in timbered lands in the United States. The gentleman, in conversation with a C. H. reporter yesterday, said: "In no section of the States was I so favorably impressed as that of the Yazoo Delta. I found all kinds of timber imaginable and I regard these vast timbered regions as possessing great wealth to your country." He further said that the future timber supply for both Europe and America is one that is now attracting the greatest interest of all those engaged in manufacturing in both countries, and said that the greater portion of lands now owned by the L., N. O. & T. railroad possessed great wealth, for the timber alone, independent of its great fertility.

Binnie, of Glasgow, who had had considerable experience of farm lands in America, had been occupied for several months last year in inspecting such property on behalf of the company. His report was most satisfactory, both as regarded the careful selection of the properties by Messrs. Corbin and Co., and also as to their safe valuations. Mr. Henry S. King, M.P., seconded the motion. A short discussion followed, and, in answer to questions, the chairman stated that they would consider the advisability of not putting all their reserve fund into Consols, as they could get 1 per cent. more on sound colonial Government

The Walter Scott Symposium.

From Tuesday's Daily, 28.

The Y. M. C. A. rooms were crowded with ladies and gentlemen last evening, on the occasion of a symposium with Walter Scott. The first exercise was a duet by Misses Hatch and Dolsen, entitled "The Wanderer's Night Song." Mr. John M. Kemble then read with fine effect from Ivanhoe "The Contest." Next was a solo by Miss Dolsen, it being the quaint Scottish ballad, "The Clang of the Wooden Shoon."

Mr. Thomas F. Binnie, a native of Bonnie Scotland, with just enough of the brogue to give added interest and zest to his language, was then introduced for the principal theme of the evening. He said he would not give a biography of Walter Scott, as that was attainable by almost any one, but would speak of his surroundings, or those things which evidently moulded his thoughts. In this respect he was like David, whose 23d Psalm told of his shepherd life and 31st Psalm of his warlike life. Milton's writings show that he was a politician and Burns' that he was a peasant. Scott's profession, the law, betrays itself in "The Antiquary" and "The Heart of Midlothian." His connection with the Scotts of Buccleuch and the family traditions no doubt poured into his young mind early filled his whole being with the romance of the wild life led by the border chiefs of Scotland.

"The Lay of the Last Minstrels" treats of just such life, as well as Rob Roy.

Scott was in debt, having early connected himself with a publishing house which failed, and having also a somewhat expensive style of living. His sense of honor was most exalted and debt to him was a disgrace. Hence he labored diligently to free himself from all financial burdens, and his life was no doubt shortened by arduous work on this account.

Mr. Binnie closed his highly entertaining address in these words:

The fertility of Scott's mind was one of the most remarkable of his gifts. From the stories of desultory facts, fancies and tales, heard here, there and everywhere, which he carried in his mind, he evolved finished tales, reading perfectly and with few if any inconsistencies, at a rate hardly to be conceived or believed.

We have already averred that poetry was not Scott's highest gift. His great, good sense is shown in the circumstance that he recognized himself that his style was inferior to that of some of his contemporaries. Notwithstanding the fact that he is not rated as a first-rate poet by the critics, the popular mind places him in a front rank. The freshness of his thoughts, the freedom and naturalness of his style and diction, entirely free as it is from pedantry, the comparatively novel subject matter, his felicitous manner of describing the beauties of nature in mountain, forest, sea and sky, and above all his evident desire to keep alive the heroism of old times in the lives and hearts of his compatriots—all these features have endeared his poems to his countrymen and himself through his works. These features in his works have made him as a novelist, and even as a poet, one of the best known and best appreciated of authors. While gifted in a high degree with the Divine afflatus, Scott was not great as a song writer. Many people fancy that a song is simply a rhyme set to music of more or less merit; in fact the music and the song are distinct and that the music is of incomparably the greater importance. While poets are fairly numerous, great song writers are very few in number. The number of compositions called song is legion, but how few are worthy of consideration? To be good, a song must contain much more than sweetly rhyming lines. Its expressions and sentiments must be as harmonious to the mind and heart as the music must be to please the most decidedly sensitive musician's ear.

The national song should elevate the thoughts and sentiments of the patriot, make his heart beat more quickly and warmly in love to his country and by its voice brace his arms to deeds of heroism and sacrifice in her defense. The sentimental story should by its melody touch the most hidden and perhaps unsuspected chords in the human heart and make them thrill in sympathy with the song and its subject. A song, to be perfect, in fact, to live, must be melodious in idea, in language, in phrase and in music. It should convey harmonious thoughts in language musical in itself.

Now, although Scott, in one or two songs comes near this standard, he does not fully attain it at any time. Probably his best song, is Jock O' Hazeldean. "Hail to the Chief" is also a good song but it does not thrill the soul. "Young Lockinvar" does not come up to a high standard, although lively. Again I repeat that Scott's hold on the public was obtained by his high and artistic appreciation of the beautiful and grand in nature, and his power of transferring his appreciative thoughts to paper in such form as to almost compell the reader to join in his appreciation in his high estimate of heroism, devotion and patriotism and in his sympathy with those who risk all and give all to support a high ideal, whether rightly or wrongly.

During the delivery of this part of his address, Mr. B. F. Boydston by request sang "Jock O' Hazeldean," a touching Scottish air, being accompanied on the organ by Miss Parkins. Mr. Binnie then read a few choice selections from Scott's works, and at the request of Secretary Ege, others in the audience quoted sentiments from the same author. The audience was then dismissed with an appropriate prayer by Rev. Lyman Whiting, D. D., of South Williamstown, Mass., who was present as the guest of Dr. Robbins.

Thomas F. Binnie, our whilom citizen, who returned to "Bonnie Scotland," last fall, in a business note to the JOURNAL, dated Stirling, Feb. 16th, says: "I expect to sail on the 28th of February for the States and hope to be in Muscatine for a day or two early in May. Although the winter has been very severe in Continental Europe, and even in the south of England, the Scotch winter has been most delightful and mild. The shrubs are budding and the spring flowers are now blooming—so I feel rather blue about leaving so soon."

Three wealthy Scottish capitalists—Jas. Romanes, Thos. Dymock and Thos. F. Binnie—are at the Nicollet. They have real estate and other interests in Minneapolis and their visit at this time is mainly with reference to them, though they are making a pretty comprehensive tour of the country and study of its interests. They arrived from the South, where they have spent nearly a month—most of the time in Texas. "I am highly pleased with the country, both South and North," said Mr. Dymock last evening. "It is developing with astonishing rapidity. The spring season is late in the South, but the weather has been pleasant and our party has learned a great deal considering its somewhat rapid travel. A very large amount of Scottish capital is being invested in this country—some profitably and some otherwise. It is going into all sorts of industries, and the investments are usually more profitable than we can find at home when proper discrimination is used in selecting them. The Northwest is a country of great natural beauty, though very different from anything in Scotland. We are especially pleased with what we have seen of Minneapolis."

The party will make a short trip into northern Minnesota before returning to Scotland.

Thos. F. Binnie, general agent of the Scottish American Mortgage Company, Limited, of Edinburgh, Scotland, spent yesterday in Muscatine and left this morning for a trip through the southwest. The many warm friends that Mr. Binnie and family made during their residence in Muscatine will be pleased to learn that they are enjoying good health in their native home.

"Muscatine (IA) Journal" Tuesday 17 May 1892 p 2

Mr. Thomas F. Binnie, manager of the Scottish-American Mortgage Company, of Edinburgh, Scotland, one of the oldest and largest British mortgage companies, was in Seattle for several days last week investigating the condition of the city. He is now in Spokane, and in speaking to a gentleman there he said that he was very favorably impressed in regard to the future of Washington, and believes it will become one of the leading states. He also said that he was very much surprised at the splendid condition he found Seattle in. He took particular notice of there being very few unoccupied residences or business buildings, and it is his belief that relatively the commercial and financial status of Seattle is very good. Mr. Binnie is very highly respected among a large acquaintance of British investors. He has an extensive experience of the United States and is considered a most conservative man. So favorable an opinion from him in regard to Seattle is a valuable indorsement.

Far Away Scotland

Muscatine Has Friends in That Far Distant Land.

BRITONS WISH US ALL WELL.

The Needs of Our Commercial Interests Make Canal Advisable
Which England Wants to See Us Build.

(By Thomas F. Binnie.)

Not only from all quarters of the United States, but also from a land as far away as Scotland comes a letter for the Old Friends' Edition.

The Letter.

90 Inverleith Place,
Edinburgh, Scotland.

Editor Journal: I have your letter of the 21st of February as to an "Old Friends'" issue of the Journal. It gives me much pleasure to think that you include me in that category. I certainly reciprocate the compliment most heartily and my family join me in doing so.

Our five years' residence in Muscatine is a pleasant reminiscence, as we formed many friendships which are warmly remembered by us, and I think it is not too much to say that, when our duties required us to leave, we carried with us the hearty good will of the good folks of the city. My son will always have a special interest in your city, as it is his birthplace and I hope he may revisit it some day.

I had great pleasure in visiting Muscatine, last September, for a few hours, in shaking hands and exchanging greetings with many friends. Unfortunately I missed you when I called at the Journal office. Such visits and such kindly greetings have sometimes a twinge of sadness. There are generally some friends gone. Among others I found old Mrs. Henry Madden, whose neighborly kindness we much appreciated, had just passed away. Our old minister Dr. Robbins and his good wife were also gone.

I was greatly pleased to see material improvements going on in the way of paving, street cars, etc., and I have no doubt that the much more important moral and intellectual advance keeps pace with and even outstrips the material improvements noticed.

Preserve Beauty.

Muscatine's natural advantages in beauty of situation are great and there is danger that material advance may go on at the expense of natural amenities. I trust that in all improvements the citizens will study this question and so order matters that what nature has so kindly done will be preserved and improved.

While so far away in person my business relations with your country are as close as ever and I, along with nearly all of my countrymen, take the deepest interest in the advance of the United States. We appreciate the fact that in the states is found the home of the future most powerful branch of the Anglo-Saxon race, and we are proud that our people, our country's system of law, and a large part of its institutions have found such a splendid field for development.

Want That Canal.

Our commercial interests would rejoice to see you build a canal across the isthmus, as that would do for the western world what the Suez canal has done for the eastern. Senator Morgan's views notwithstanding, I think our people can appreciate an aid to commerce as well as any people, and, in this particular case, probably better than those working in the supposed interest of your own Pacific railways.

The wish of every true Briton is that the United States may flourish and prosper in every high and noble cause and aspiration.

My family and I send greetings to friends in Muscatine, wishing them prosperity and happiness and thanking you for the opportunity of letting them know how kindly we remember them and their pleasant city.

Thomas F. Binnie.

Gerry Lewin/Statesman Journal

Moyra Meola reflects on how Parkinson's disease has changed her life.

Living with Parkinson's

By Patricia Feeny

The Statesman Journal

Moyra Meola had waved good-bye to her twin grandsons hundreds of times.

Like shaking hands or stirring a cup of coffee, she took the gesture for granted.

"One day I went to wave good-bye and my fingers wouldn't work," she said. "Gradually, the right side of my body stopped working."

It wasn't long before she couldn't dress herself, brush her teeth or play piano.

"Something as simple as this," she said wiggling her fingers, "became difficult."

That was in 1984. Two years and a handful of doctors later, the diagnosis was made: Parkinson's disease.

Parkinson's — a disease affecting more than 10,000 Oregonians — is a disorder of the brain. It develops because of damage to the part of the nervous system that controls movement, posture, walking and balance.

Primary symptoms include stiffness, tremor, slowness and difficulty with balance and walking. Secondary symptoms include depression, loss of memory and difficulty in speaking.

Meola, now 55, said that not knowing what was causing her world to come down around her was like living a nightmare.

"One doctor told me it was all mental and that I should see a psychologist or good psychiatrist," she said.

Another doctor said that she had a stroke. She underwent surgery for her carotid artery, one of the two major arteries in the neck that carry blood to the head.

Nothing changed.

After that, surgery was done on her hand, which by now was curling up and beginning to atrophy.

Still, nothing happened.

It wasn't until she went to Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland that she got the answer she sought.

Many months before, Meola had scrawled out on paper a list of things that she couldn't do anymore — stir her coffee, brush her teeth, write, shampoo her hair or scratch off lottery tickets.

Meola was stunned when during an examination the doctor began asking her about things on her list. Finally, someone had asked her questions that she could answer.

"It's probably the loneliest disease until it's diagnosed because you think you're crazy," she said.

A few months later the diagnosis was confirmed and Meola was responding to levodopa — the drug used to treat symptoms of Parkinson's disease.

The chemical that is deficient in the brains of Parkinson's patients is dopamine. Levodopa manufactures dopamine in the body.

Meola said that being on levodopa is like being Cinderella at the ball: If you don't take it on time everything goes back to the way it was.

One of the biggest problems facing patients is the fluctuating response they experience after being on it for several years.

Meola said that she is in what doctors have dubbed the L-dopa Honeymoon stage. The honeymoon is over when Meola stops responding to the drug.

Right now she is part of a research project at the university to find a new drug for treating Parkinson's.

"There's nothing you can do about Parkinson's except learn how to live with it," she said. "There's no cure, only medication to treat the symptoms."

Marriage: 3 Mar 1916 in the First Presbyterian Church, Chicago, Cook IL. William has told people in Fallon, Prairie Co. MT where he has been the cashier for the State Bank of Montana since 1912, that he is going to visit his family in Scotland for 4 months. One newspaper makes the ominous comment that it hopes his ship is not hit by a submarine. The folks back in Fallon are therefore surprised when news comes back that William, whose departure was "ostensibly" to visit his family, has married a "homesteader" – fellow Montana resident Inez McNaughton in Chicago IL – and that the newlyweds are proceeding on to Scotland together, sailing from New York City to Liverpool, England. It would appear that either Inez accompanied him to Chicago or met him there.
