

TUSCANIA

Wilder, Earl David 1894 WI – 1967 WI

Earl D. Wilder

WESTFIELD — Funeral services were held today at 2 p.m. from Westfield New Church, with the Rev. Lydon Viel officiating, for Earl David Wilder, 72, Westfield, who died Monday at Madison Veterans Hospital where he had been a patient several months.

Mr. Wilder was born at Wautoma Aug. 4, 1894, son of the late Harry and Bertha Wilder. The family later moved to Coloma where he attended school. He married Addie Willey at Hancock June 19, 1927 and was employed as grocery manager of Eubank Store, Westfield, for over 40 years. In June, 1917, he enlisted in the U.S. Army, 32nd Division, and was a survivor of the Tuscania. A member of Westfield Methodist Church, he also belonged to the American Legion Post of that village.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Harry, Richmond, Va.; one sister, Mrs. Mable Elliott, Mesa, Ariz.; one brother, Floyd of Wauertown, and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were made by Schultz and Thalacker Funeral Home, Westfield. Burial was in Hancock Cemetery.

Word was received here Monday evening of the death at the Veterans' Hospital in Madison of Earl Wilder, 72, of Westfield. Surviving are his wife, the former Addie Wiley of this village, and one son, Harvey, in Virginia. Funeral arrangements are pending, waiting the arrival of the son and family.

Son:

Harry D.
Wilder

Harry D. Wilder The world lost one of its more interesting characters with the death of Harry, Friday, August 28th, just one week after his 88th birthday. Complications from Covid 19 proved too much for him to overcome. During his last week of life his son Dave arranged for home hospice care. After being deprived of access to family while he was hospitalized, it was a wonderful opportunity to celebrate his life, comfort him to the last and relive old memories. Harry was born in Westfield WI. He was valedictorian of his Westfield HS class of 1950. He graduated first in his 1955 chemical engineering class from the Univ. of Wisconsin and in 1960 received a PhD from the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton WI. He began his career at the Institute as a research associate. There he met and married his first wife, Jean Madden and celebrated the births of his 3 children, David, Lynn and Leigh. Harry accepted a Director of Research position with Albermarle Paper Company, a subsidiary of Ethyl Corporation, in 1965. The family settled in the Richmond VA area and had a small hobby farm there. In 1977, after a divorce, Harry accepted a position as Chief Research Associate with Scott Paper in Philadelphia. In 1980 after marrying Roberta W. Eckman, he moved to the Elverson area. Harry and Bobbie traveled extensively in Europe, Australia, and the USA. They enjoyed dining and could frequently be seen in locally owned establishments in the area. Harry had a lifelong interest in antiques and local history. At his 18th century Knauer miller's mansion on route 23 near St. Peter's Village, he and Bobbie started a small business. They purchased the original old mill and mill manager's house next door and began the laborious restoration project. They took a booth at the Black Angus Antique Mall in Adamstown, PA, another at White Horse Mill in Gap and ran a shop in the mill on their property. After retiring from Scott, Harry devoted more time to the business and developed knowledge of and an extensive collection of antique duck decoys. The Knauer complex is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and the land is a part of the French and Pickering Conservation Trust. Any memorial contributions in Harry's name should be directed to a historic or conservation group of the giver's choice. Plans for a memorial celebration are pending resolution of the Corona Virus quarantine restrictions. Left to mourn are Bobbie, his 3 children, his daughter in law, Hermie, grandchildren Gus, Irene, and Garrett and his many friends and acquaintances.

Patents by Inventor Harry D. Wilder

Harry D. Wilder has filed for patents to protect the following inventions. This listing includes patent applications that are pending as well as patents that have already been granted by the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO).

Method for producing pulp using pre-treatment with stabilizers and refiningPatent number: 5002635

Abstract: A method for producing a novel pulp, primarily wood pulp, from chips using pre-treatment with stabilizers and alkaline peroxide prior to mechanical fiberization (refining) to increase the brightness of the resulting fibers and the papermaking strength achievable with the fibers. The novel aspect of the pretreatment prior to refining is that it results in the "in situ" formation within the chips of a stabilizing flock or sol.

Type: GrantFiled: June 19, 1989Date of Patent: March 26, 1991Assignee: Scott Paper CompanyInventors: Victor M. Gentile, Jr., Harry D. WilderMethod for producing pulp using pre-treatment with stabilizers and defibration*Patent number: 4849053

Type: GrantFiled: December 13, 1988Date of Patent: July 18, 1989Assignee: Scott Paper CompanyInventors: Victor M. Gentile, Jr., Harry D. WilderSizing process and composition*Patent number: 4302283

Abstract: Improved paper sizing is obtained by using water soluble salts of substitutes succinic acid having the formula: ##STR1## wherein R' is essentially hydrocarbon group of the formula ##STR2## wherein R is hydrogen or alkyl, at least two R groups being alkyl, and the total number of carbon atoms in R' is from 16 to about 26.

Type: GrantFiled: September 2, 1980Date of Patent: November 24, 1981Assignee: Ethyl CorporationInventors: Sidney M. Blitzer, Harry D. WilderRefining of vegetable matter and delignification of the refined matter with chlorine dioxide*Patent number: RE28777

Abstract: .[.A process for the delignification of chips of vegetable matter by pretreating the chips to obtain at least 64 percent by weight refined vegetable matter, and delignifying the refined vegetable matter with chlorine dioxide. A pulp produced in high yield by the process which refines easier, dries more readily on a paper machine, exhibits higher on-machine filler retention, and possesses greater strength than conventionally bleached kraft pulp made from the same wood mixture. A paper produced from said pulp which has higher tensile, tear, burst, fold, pick and delamination strengths and greater brightness stability than paper produced from conventionally bleached kraft pulp made from the same wood mixture..]. .ladd.

Type: GrantFiled: June 28, 1974Date of Patent: April 20, 1976Assignee: Ethyl CorporationInventor: Harry D. Wilder

Harry D. Wilder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilder was awarded the Bachelor of Science degree at the University of Wisconsin at the end of the first semester.

"Portage (WI) Daily Register" Wednesday 30 Mar 1955 p 10

Doctoral research reported by three students who are nearing the completion of their studies included:

Louis R. Busche on the background for his investigation of the nature of lignin in aspenwood. Through new techniques, developed in part at the institute, he has succeeded in isolating from aspenwood a lignin presumed to be almost identical with the lignin as it originally existed in the wood.

Harry D. Wilder reported his research on the relationships between load, time of loading and amount of deformation of cellulosic beds under compressive loads. This work is a step toward a better understanding of the behavior of fibers on the paper machine wire.

Richard W. Dietrick discussed his research on selectively removing sugars, sometimes beneficial and sometimes undesirable, in wood pulp. He theorized that other such studies might lead to tailor-made pulps in the future.

At Institute of Paper Chemistry meeting – "Appleton (WI) Post-Crescent" Saturday 9 May 1959 p 3

Three Twin City men and others from the Paperland area will participate in the 15th engineering conference of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry (TAPPI), Sunday through Wednesday at the Hotel Robert Meyer, Jacksonville, Fla.

Excerpt:

Dr. W. L. Ingmanson, research associate, S. T. Han, H. D. Wilder, and W. T. Myers, of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, will present their technical paper, "Resistance of Wire Screens to Flow of Water," during the technical session on "Fluid Mechanics 1." Dr. Harry D. Wilder, research aide at the institute, will present "The Compression Creep Properties of Wet Pulp Mats" at the same session.

Couples Are New As Grandparents

WESTFIELD — Two couples from Westfield became "first-time grand parents" this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Golliber received word of a baby boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Neill of Milton. He was born November 8 and weighed 8 pounds at Edgerton Memorial hospital and has been named John Robert O'Neill III. His mother is the former Maureen Golliber.

The Earl Wilders became grandparents on Saturday, Nov. 12, when a son, David Mark a husky little lad weighing 9 pounds 1½ oz., was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilder of Appleton.

Gardner, Han Get New Posts At Institute

Two Former Groups Combined Into New Technology Section

Howard S. Gardner and S. T. Han have been named to positions of broad institutional responsibility at The Institute of Paper Chemistry. In addition the former engineering and technology section and the special processes section have been joined in a new technology section under T. A. Howells.

Howells

Gardner has been appointed senior Research associate, administrative staff, where his background and broad experience in industry, research, and education will be applied to institutional technical relations and special undertakings. He will continue as a member of the faculty and various internal committees.

S. T. Han's appointment is as a research associate attached to the office of the dean of the Institute, where he will be concerned with formulation and implementation resulting from both internal and external examination of scientific trends and movements in which the Institute is engaged. Han also will continue as a member of the faculty and internal committees.

Expanding Needs

The joining of the former engineering and technology section and the special processes section to form the new technology section follows other recent changes in the Institute's organizational structure to meet the constantly expanding needs of the areas in which the institute serves.

Three groups have been formed within the new section, each under a group leader. These are the chemical processes group under Harry D. Wilder, the mechanical processes group under William L. Ingmanson, and the special processes group under the section's chairman, T. A. Howells.

New Technology Unit Formed at Paper Institute

APPLETON (PG)—Howard S. Gardner and S. T. Han, faculty members at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, have been named research associates at the institute and T. A. Howells has been named to head a new technology section.

As senior research associate of the administrative staff, Gardner will work in institutional technical relations and special undertakings.

Gardner

Han will formulate and implement examination of scientific trends and movements as research associate of the office of the dean of the institute.

Headed by Howells, the new technology section was formed from the engineering and technology section and the special processes section. There are three groups in the new technology section.

Howells

Harry D. Wilder will head the chemical processes group, which will work in technologic areas essentially chemical in nature. William L. Ingmanson will direct the mechanical processes group, which will study areas essentially mechanical or physical in nature. Howells, in addition to serving as section chairman, will head the special processes group, which will investigate and develop processes and products by a variety of technologic methods.

Coloma Couple Repeats Vows

Miss Daisy Wilder and Harry Lawton, both of Coloma, were married Saturday at the home of the bride's sister Mrs. Arleigh Elliott, Eau Claire. The Rev. H. Freedman, Methodist pastor, officiated.

The bride was attired in a white suit with matching hat and her corsage was composed of gardenias.

Attendants to the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Elliott.

After the ceremony, a buffet supper was served.

Mrs. Lawton has been a telephone operator at Coloma. Mr. Lawton recently retired from the West Allis police force. After a short trip to northern Wisconsin, the couple will take up residence in Coloma.

Guests from away included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Uher, Junction City, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lawton, Coloma.
