TUSCANIA SURVIVOR HAS THRILLING STORY TO TELL OF WRECK AND ESCAPE

A graphic account of the wreck of the Tuscania is contained in a letter from Harold Roberts son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Roberts, which they just received this week. The postmark bore the stamp "Shane's Park," and the letter was written February 9. Excerpts from his letter follows:

"The ship we were on was torpedoed about 5:45 Tuesday night, Feb. 5th. I was about four decks above my quarters, just starting to shave when she hit.

The lights immediately went out and everybody rushed on deck, to our lifeboat stations. I was without my hat, coat, overcoat and life belt. After standing there about ten minutes while the boat crew was working with the boats up on the deck above us, I went down to my quarters and got my overcoat, gloves, hat and life belt and right back on deck again.

Our squadron was to go in the No. 10 boats, on the port side. The ship was hit on the starboard, or right side, and was listing pretty heavily toward that side. There was some difficulty in handling the boats on our side, and when they put No. 10-A over the side she capsized with two or three men in her. They got out all right on the life ropes. No. 10-B was launched with about 40 men in it, and 10-C was down at our deck, about half full of men, and before I had a chance to get in, (I was supposed to go in 10-C) the rope broke, and 10-C dropped right on top of 10-B, and I guess most of the 40 men in 10-B were killed. Then the ship was listing so much that they couldn't get any more boats over that side. Our officers told some of us to go up and help the boat crews as they didn't have enough men. Then a torpedo boat destroyer came alongside and the ship took off about four or five hundred. I was up on the boat deck trying to help out there. They got two or three more life boats off the other side of the ship, and then they couldn't seem to move any more of them, and there were still several hundred of us on the ship. Then another destroyer came up and took off all but about sixty of us.

We sixty got to work and rigged up some new tackle, and got one more lifeboat over, on the lower side. We knew it was our last chance, as the ship was very low in the water, and listing heavily. We all got into the one boat, which was only supposed to hold forty, and after picking up two or three out of the water, rowed away from the ship. We were in the last boat to leave the ship and as far as I know got off everyone who was alive. We got away about 8:30, and as soon as we were a safe distance away from the ship, stopped rowing, and began to bail out the water with and began to bail out the water with our hats, as the boat was leaking badly, owing to the overload.

I lost my overcoat and life belt as I took them off while I was working, so that I could do more. I bailed water with my hat for about two hours, and was so wet and cold that I had to let someone else take my place, and I laid down on the seats and several others who were dry laid over me, and so I got warm again. We had to lie down as much as possible so we would have room in the boat for everyone.

About an hour later, after having been adrift about three hours, we were picked up by a trawler, and taken into port on the coast of Ireland, where we arrived at six in the morning.

We had only been gone from the ship about three quarters of an hour when the boilers exploded, and broke her in two pieces, and we saw no more of her.

When we arrived in port we were immediately taken to one of the hotels, where we had breakfast, got warm, dry, clothing and some sleep.

We were treated royally by the people there, and after staying there two nights, this afternoon we came down to this place which is in a barracks. There are some Scottish troops here, who have seen service in the trenches and are wounded.

We don't know where we will go when we leave here, nor when; but of course we must stick around this part of the country somewhere until we can get some more clothing from some U. S. Supply Depot. I lost everything I had, except what clothing I have on.

All of our service records went down with the ship, as did our payroll and I think the money for our pay. Thus it will take several months before these things can be looked up, and until that time we will receive no pay.

There were several boys whom I know, aboard the ship: Clarence Norgren, Phil Custard's older brother, "Tad" Wilson, Lewis Hall and his brother, and perhaps some more. Clarence Norgren was landed at the same port as myself, but I have't heard anything about the others, yet.

Out of 2500 troops on the ship, all but about 200 are accounted for, and perhaps some of these will turn up later.

The people here are surely treating us fine and we appreciate it very much.

Of course we were like evryone else, we didn't think it could happen to us, but it did.

Michael Warren

Michael Warren, 77, a former resident of Vancouver, died Saturday in San Francisco. Mr. Warren, a native of England, made his home in Vancouver for 20 years before moving to San Francisco in 1911. He is survived by three nephews, W. O. Wilson and M. Wilson of Portland and Robert Wilson of Cascade, Ida., and one niece, Mrs. J. O. Kissell of Portland.

Complaint Filed

William O. Wilson is unlawfully obstructing a public road by building fences across it, F. R. Sweet alleges in a superior court complaint. He claims the road has been deeded to Clark county but the defendant refuses to recognize the fact; and he wants the court to adjudge the strip, located in Section 23, Two north, One east, to be a public road, and to enjoin the defendant from obstructing it. He also wants $150 for alleged damages by reason of blocking the road.

Heany-Davis

The surprise announcement of the marriage on July 17 at Coeur d'Alene, Ida., of Miss Florence Heany and Frank Davis was made recently to 100 guests in Manitou Community hall who had gathered to honor Mrs. Davis at a bridal shower in honor of her engagement. Mrs. Davis is the daughter of Mrs. William Waddell of Mason avenue, and Mr. Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of South Huson street.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Davies of South Pine street were hosts for the occasion, which began with a grand march to the music of an orchestra which furnished music for dancing throughout the evening. After the march Harold Heany, brother of the bride, made the announcement. Mr. and Mrs. Davis received many gifts for their new home, and guests were served refreshments. The hall was decorated with branches and garlands of summer flowers.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lincoln high school, and plan to make their new home in Tacoma. Out-of-town guests for the dance and shower were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rockman of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wilson of Bonneville, and Mrs. A. A. Griggs of Wenatchee, grandmother of the bride.

'Red' Norgren Recalls 'When'; Vessel Bearing Local Boys Torpedoed 20 Years Ago

When C. C. "Red" Norgren, deputy county auditor, sits down to dinner tonight preceding a "wreck" of the Forty and Eight, American Legion fun organization, to be held at Washougal grange, he'll probably eat a little extra just — well, just because. The party is being held on the twentieth anniversary of an evening when Norgren and six other Clark county youths missed a meal and never did catch up with it.

Twenty years ago at 6:30 p. m. Norgren was sitting hungrily first in line at the head of a stairway leading down to a mess hall on the American troop transport Tuscania when a terrific, clanging "Boom!" from the bowels of the ship caused him to lose interest in food. The noise was produced by a torpedo from a German sub, and it in turn produced pandemonium.

Norgren was one of a group of about 40 who finally took charge of lowering the boats and attempting to bring order out of chaos. He was in the last boat to leave the ship, and there were only 80 men in a lifeboat intended for a maximum of 54.

If a British sub-chaser hadn't accidentally found them in the murk of a 60-mile gale about midnight he might not be celebrating any anniversaries tonight, because the frantic efforts of the occupants to keep their overloaded craft from swamping by bailing it out with their campaign hats were steadily losing ground. He will be the only one of the local survivors attending the wreck tonight.

With Norgren on the ship, though not in the last boat, were a Charles Hall of Felida and his brother, Robert Snodgrass, M. L. Custard, Harold Roberts and "Tad" Wilson, all from Clark county. They were in the Twentieth engineers.
