Century Road Club Forms Local Division

Following the announcement of the Manhattan division of the Century Road Club of America last week that it would make efforts to establish a Brooklyn division, a meeting was held at 636 Glenmore avenue, where the said division came into existence. The new organization boasts of twenty members and expects to triple this by the time the outdoor season starts. George R. Steppello, L. I. Citz, Joseph Caldwell and George Cluntz of Brooklyn, Sylvan Segal, A. R. Jacobsen, P. Wallenschlager, W. F. Thompson and I. Taub of Manhattan and Meyer Cigal of Long Island City addressed the gathering. The officers of the association are: Centurion, W. M. Winkvist; secretary, Joseph J. Caldwell; treasurer, George R. Steppello; captain, Raymond L. Caldwell.

Following the election a bike race was staged. It was won by Raymond Caldwell, with Peter Gentile second and George Steppello third. The time for the half mile was 0:25.

OVER 200 CYCLISTS TAKE PART IN ANNUAL FALL CENTURY RUN

The fall century run of the Long Island Division of the Century Road Club Association which was yesterday, proved to be a success, more than 200 riders competing for the gold medals awarded for perfect scores after completing the 100 miles. Competition was hot in the five-mile road race held previous to reaching the dinner stop, Bayshore.

The pleasure division left Columbus Circle 7 A. M. under the guidance of Chief Pacemaker George Steppello, Willard Knecht, and Mayer Cigal. Jamaica was the first stop, the pleasure division from Bedford Rest being met there. Pacemaker Irving Markowitz and William M. Winquist led the Brooklynites. The combined divisions of 125 riders pedaled over excellent roads to Freeport where refreshments were served. Leaving Freeport and spinning along the Merrick road, Amityville soon was reached. They moved on to Babylon, where both pleasure divisions waited for the finish of the five-mile race, which the riders of the fast division were to partake in. The fast division was divided into two—one from Manhattan, under leadership of L. P. Suttler, Paul Henko and George Polacsky, and the other from Brooklyn, under Pacemaker Raymond Caldwell.

The five-mile race was started at the county line in Amityville and finished at Babylon. It was won by L. P. Suttler, C. R. C. A., over 75 competitors. The others finished as follows: Second, Ray Caldwell, C. R. C. A.; third, E. Alchelin, N. E. W.; fourth, Gus Hurray, C. R. C. A.; fifth, E. C. Bendi, Acme Wh.; sixth, N. Johnson, N. S. I.; seventh, Max Halpern, C. R. C. A.; eighth, E. Jensen, C. R. C. A.; ninth, John Mazzoli, C. R. C. A.; tenth, Fred F. Post, S. R. C. A.; eleventh, A. Costes, Acme Wh.; twelfth, Frederick Small, Acme Wh.; thirteenth, George Grundig, Acme Wh.; fourteenth, B. Pericone, C. R. C. A.; fifteenth, A. Zwiber, C. R. C. A.

The silver loving cup was awarded to the New England Wheelmen, who had the largest number of entries. The Century Road Club Association did not compete for this trophy as it was the promoting club. The prizes for the five-mile race will be awarded at the Long Island Division's club house, 639 Glenmore avenue, near Warwick street.

War Days Relived by Airmen, Torpedoed on S. S. Tuscania

Buddies From Six States Attend Squadron's Reunion

Ships were torpedoed, battles in the air and on the ground were fought and won, buddies from a half dozen States again lived the World War around the dinner table when the 213th Aero Squadron Veterans' Association held its annual reunion at the St. George Hotel their wives and guests. Letters and telegrams were read from a score or more men who could not be present.

Washington G. Davies, president, was toastmaster at the dinner, at which impromptu talks were given. No set programme was arranged. Other officers of the war veterans' organization are Mayor Cigal, vice-president; Frank T. Martin, treasurer, and John J. Rieber, secretary. Walter Friedman was in charge of entertainment.

last night. Aces and mechanics who were among the first to go overseas as members of the Third Pursuit group, commanded by Col. William Thaw, shook hands with old bunk-mates and swapped memories.

Every member of the famous squadron was on the torpedoed S.S. Tuscania when she was sunk during the early days of the war. Six men were lost.

Among the survivors who were present at last night's reunion were two World War aces, Lieut. Richard Aldworth, Newark, N. J., and Lieut. Howard C. Smith of Philadelphia. Out of a total membership of 150 there were 65 present. Some of them came from Canada for the event. The annual reunion date is the same as the date on which the Tuscania was sunk.

Reminiscences not only of the wanderings of men lost at sea but of experiences in the Argonne drive and on the St. Mehiel front were told by this group of men who spent sixteen months and one week "on the other side."

The reunion was a dinner dance, attended by squadron members,

Joseph Wischeidt, with his wife, Wilhelmina, reenacts scene in which he spotted trio.

Chef's Hobby Saves 3 on Upset Boat

A second-hand, 18-foot auxiliary sloop, making its maiden voyage with its new owner, capsized and sank in the East River off 86th St. at 1:30 P. M. yesterday—and almost took him and two companions to the bottom.

What prevented a tragic outcome was the penchant of Joseph Wischiedt, 44, of 326 E. 81st St., a landbound chef, for sweeping the river with a telescope. He was out taking the air with his wife, Wilhelmina, 43, and was admiring the trim little boat when he saw it suddenly getting into trouble.

Fireboat to Rescue.

The craft, headed downstream, was starting to tack into the wind just north of Welfare Island when, suddenly, the wind shifted and a gust caught its canvas broadside. The three occupants were thrown into the treacherous current.

Wischiedt, who was at 86th St., ran to Engine Co. 78, at 90th St.

and the river, where the fireboat Thomas Willett was tied up. In a matter of minutes the fireboat, under command of Lieut Rudolph Poeschl, reached the distressed mariners, who by this time had been swept upstream to a point opposite the fire pier.

The owner, Norman Kagan, 31, a consulting engineer of 2060 83d St., Brooklyn, was reluctant at first to leave the overturned boat. It represented an investment of $1,500. But while he argued, it began breaking up from the pounding of wind and waves.

Kagan's companions were Gil Cigal, 22, of 115 Beaumont Ave.,

Brooklyn, a student at Mohawk College, Utica, and Byram Berg, 23, of 3508 Mermaid Ave., Brooklyn, a sophomore at New York University. All were taken to the city reception hospital on Welfare Island for examination but were found uninjured.

Kagan ruefully explained he had bought the boat recently and with his two friends went to College Point, Queens, yesterday morning to pick it up and sail it to Sheepshead Bay. They set sail at 11:30 A. M., and had maneuvered the unfamiliar craft through Hell Gate and into the East River when misfortune struck.

GILBERT CIGAL

65 years of SEMPER PARATUS

and Still Going

by Nelson M Chin

Gilbert Cigal is the longest serving Coast Guard Auxiliarist member in Flotilla 11-13, perhaps in the history of Division 11. After serving with the United States Army during World War II and honorably discharged, he saw tension beginning to develop in Korea. Uncertain about another World War, Gilbert recalled his experience of being drafted into the service. He remembered specifically requesting to be in the Navy and was asked whether he had any experience but being a sailor since he was 16 years old was not enough to keep him out of the Army. He was drafted into the Army and served overseas in Japan. With war brewing in Korea, Cigal joined the Coast Guard Auxiliary on June 12th, 1953, where he hoped to stand a better chance to be assigned to the Navy should he be recalled to duty.

Gilbert Cigal - Present Day, photo by: Robert M Orrin

A sailor since the age of 16, Cigal had owned a few boats in his lifetime and made a living working in and around boats as a yacht surveyor. He has performed over 896 vessel safety checks with the Auxiliary, not including the numerous vessel checks that were submitted before the age of computers. Cigal explains it was easy for him to do, having access to so many local marinas whether for business or renting slips for his boat. To this day, he is often found traveling around on his scooter visiting marinas with his hat and clipboard.

His favorite experiences were meeting fellow Auxiliarists with similar interests, spending time with others members, whether to work as a group or gathering for social activities. He enjoyed the flotilla mostly when members would attend monthly meetings, or gather for training and then later meetup socially.

Cigal started as a member of the Auxiliary in Rockaway, New York. The flotilla operated in the former Rockaway Coast Guard Station until it later closed. In his 65 years with the Auxiliary, he had out lived 5 flotillas before coming to his current home flotilla, 11-13 in Sheepshead Bay. Today, he is still an active member with over 3,348 hours (post paper records) and going. At 91 years old, he still travels around on his scooter.

Charles J. Stravalle graduated Archbishop Molloy High School amid the pandemic finishing classes on-line. In 2019, he was appointed as an NYPD Auxiliary Police Officer. Prior to this, he volunteered at the NYS Liquor Authority where he worked with state investigators visiting over a hundred locations as an underage agent. Underage drinking is an epidemic in our society and performing these checks make business owners more responsible and society safer.

Being community minded when he turned seventeen, he joined the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary. Seventeen is the minimum age to join and he is currently the youngest member of Flotilla 11-03. He was recognized at the 2019 Change of Watch as the youngest member along with the longest serving member, Gilbert Cigal who has over 65 years of service. Charles was appointed as a staff officer for 2020 to oversee the Program Visitor Initiative for the Division and Flotilla 11-03. He is also a vessel examiner and instructor.

TOMS RIVER — The ocean racing schedule continues to grow. Island Heights and Toms River Yacht Clubs have announced plans to jointly sponsor a new race, Aug. 1.

The event will be known as the Barnegat Lightship Race. It will be sailed on a triangular course of approximately 20 miles in the ocean off Barnegat Inlet.

The race will be open to boats from any recognized yacht club. The Off Soundings measurement rule will be used to handicap the boats.

Island Heights Y.C. is also planning a full season of auxiliary sailboat races.

Bay Head Yacht Club will hold a race off Manasquan Inlet similar to the Diamond Jubilee Race that proved popular last August.

Other ocean sailing races already announced include the Ocean City - Cape May race July 4 and the Cape May - Newport, R.I. race June 13.

Jersey Ocean Racing Club will hold its usual full schedule, including the Texas Tower Memorial race.

of Veteran Affairs' regional office said it was highly unlikely any funds would be made available to local VA officials to keep the "painful cuts" from being carried out.

According to agency spokesman Everett Chasen, the VA, like other federal agencies, has been ordered to slash services by 5.3%, so that the government can, as current law requires, balance its budget.

Chasen acknowledged that VA hospitals across the country, such as St. Albans, will be "in trouble" for the entire 1990 fiscal year if budgetary increases are not forthcoming. "Either taxes are raised or services are cut," Chasen said. "There is no . . . alternative."

St. Albans' health care woes are emblematic of the crisis that has been tightening around the VA's health care system throughout the Northeast for the last several years, VA officials say.

Without mincing words, Farsetta called funding cuts by Congress "unconscionable."

"Congress has asked us to take care of more people," he said. "It's good at passing programs, but not at funding them."

Farsetta said his operating budget has been lowered to $104 million this year, and that over the last decade his budget dollars have not kept pace with inflation.

"I'm not given enough money to service the population I'm asked to service," he said.

Already hurt

Lack of funds has already hurt St. Albans in other ways, officials say.

The purchase of new and better testing equipment has been delayed or eliminated entirely, staff vacancies have been left unfilled, and building improvements remain on the drawing board, according to Moschitta, who has been St. Albans' administrative head for the last five years.

"You don't expand services," said Moschitta, "and you delay hiring. It's a very difficult situation."

Even providing heat in the evening for patients poses a daily dilemma, according to Gilbert Cigal, head of engineering.

"When I leave at night," said Cigal, who has been at St. Albans for eight years, "I have to make a decision whether to turn on the heat or leave it off. I don't have the funds to hire anyone at night, or to computerize the heating system."

Hinckley Bermuda 40

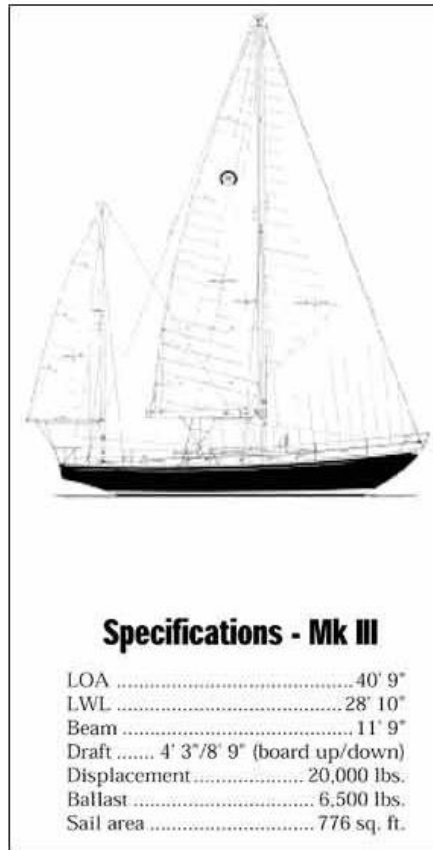

With the longest production run of any boat built in the U.S., the 40 is as seaworthy as she is beautiful.

The Henry R. Hinckley & Co. The name is known to every American sailor. Or should be. It connotes different things to different people, mostly depending on their politics: Down East craftsmanship, big bucks, Yankee work ethic, East Coast blue-blooded snobbery. For those familiar with the company's work, it more likely means mirror-like varnish, custom stainless steel castings, the trademark dust bin in the cabin sole and "frameless" portlights. Still, critics are quick to complain that other builders produce boats that are just as good for less money. More often than not, these sentiments are just sour grapes from people who can't afford a Hinckley or even a different brand of comparable quality. While we acknowledge that there probably are a few builders around the world which build boats to the same exacting level, Hinckley is nonetheless unique in North American boatbuilding.

Hinckley Bermuda 40

History

Henry R. Hinckley started the company that bears his name on graduation from Cornell University. His first boat, launched in 1934, was a 26-foot lobster-type powerboat. Soon moving to sail, he designed and built the Sou'wester 34 and 30-foot Sou'wester Jr. During World War II he built mine yawls, coastal pickets and tugs. While his "production" wooden boats weren't regarded as anything exceptional, his yard did do some first-class work, building the 73-foot Windigo (nee Ventura) and Nirvana.

After the war, Hinckley began experimenting with fiberglass as a potential boatbuilding material, though, true to his conservative Maine heritage, he didn't rush into it. The Hinckley Bermuda 40, introduced in 1959 and still in production today, was a watershed for the company.

According to company notes on the B 40, "The firm had built a wooden 38-foot yawl in 1959 and had called her a Sou'wester Sr. It was Henry's plan to sail the boat hard the coming summer and if she proved her worth, he would use her as a plug from which to build the mold for the first fiberglass Hinckleys. But this was never to occur."

At the 1959 New York Boat Show, Hinckley was approached by a consortium of eight men, who had commissioned Bill Tripp to modify the Block Island 40 for them. The group's front man, Gilbert Cigal, persuaded Hinckley to build the boats. The decision to abandon the Sou'wester Sr. was difficult, but from a business point of view, it made more sense to invest in tooling for boats already sold.

The first B 40 was delivered to consortium member Morton Engel in time for that year's Bermuda Race. Though not completely finished, she finished in the top third of the field. In 1964 she won the Northern Ocean Racing Trophy and the next year the Marblehead to Halifax Race.

Many other B 40s achieved notable accomplishments both racing and cruising. One of the more publicized circumnavigations was done by Sy and Vickie Carkhuff, who wrote about their adventures in numerous magazine articles. It is therefore no surprise that the combination of Hinckley quality and Tripp seaworthiness produced a boat that boasts the longest-running production span of any fiberglass boat—32 years.

Hinckley's Rigdon Reese said the company does not sell a lot of B 40s nowadays, in part because their 42 and 43-footers represent many of the major advancements that have been made in yacht design over the past three decades. These are primarily in the areas of increased interior volume and better sailing performance. "But," Reese says, "every now and then someone appears at the door who feels he must own a B 40. If we can't sell him a brokered boat (Hinckley sells the vast majority of used—or should we say 'pre-owned'—Hinckleys) or talk him into a newer design, then we'll build him a B 40." The last one launched was during the summer of 1991—hull #203.

PIGS

BORN TO SHOP

Stores go hog wild over latest trend

By Barbara Nachman
Staff Writer

With an oink oink here and an oink oink there, pig paraphernalia is popping up all over the place.

Just grunt on over to the nearest gift shop and you're sure to find everything from itty bitty piglet things to big fat porker stuff. It seems like everyone's agog for hogs.

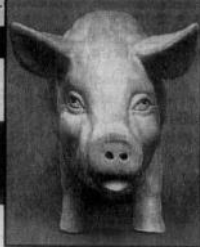

For starters take a look in Pants And...!, a Manhattan souvenir shop known for keeping up with the latest shopping whims. You won't find many pants at Pants And...! What you will find is a pig-pourri.

Searching for a tie that's 100 percent polyester and emblazoned with bubble-gum pink pig faces? You'll find it here for $19.95 alongside T-shirts adorned with pink piggies for $15.95 and matching socks, called pig feet for $9.

The ceramic pig, $265, and napkin rings, $3.50, are from Bloomingdale's.

Pigs as pets, B2

In Westchester the snout-nosed, curly-tails are also a hot retail item. At trend-setting Bloomingdale's you'll find everything from hand-painted paper mache napkin rings for $3.50 to a $265 3-foot ceramic pig from Portugal.

matching socks, called pig feet for $8.
 "We're the flagship store for pig merchandise in New York City," co-owner Bill Cigal says proudly of his store on 49th Street in Rockefeller Center.
 Cigal sells to pig fanciers and collectors, folks who think anything with a swine is fine. But just plain folks also sashay in and fall for the $9 pig pins and the boxer shorts that go for $13.95.

Pig-o-mania has also overtaken upscale Neiman Marcus. On the piggy trail: Pigling Bland, a plush re-creation of one of Beatrix Potter's characters who wears a pink velvet jacket, $20; a ceramic pig soup terrine (the lid is the pig's head,) $110; and an 8-inch crystal pig from Orrefors, $95.

And at Razzmatazz gift shop in Tarrytown, you guessed it, a plethora of pig products, including three little rubber piggies for bathtub fun, $3.50; a handmade wooden pig door stop, $38; and Pig Out, a recipe box decorated with pig illustrations.

Porker's paradise
 Yes, the pig thing has reached prodigious proportions here in the New York metropolitan area. But that's nothing compared to what's happening in Boston. There, Head Hog David Mercer, has been pushing pigs for more than a dozen years.
 Hog Wild! is the name of Mercer's pig emporium in the Faneuil Hall Market. And Mercer also has a thriving mail-order business with his catalog "The Pork Avenue Collection," which boasts speedy Porcinalized Service to those who call (617) 523-PIGS.
 A lawyer, whose nickname Porker dates back to high school, Mercer says he was looking into business opportunities and basically opened his store on a dare.
 "Most people were skeptical," he recalls of early reactions to

Captain Cigale Organized Local

Among the passengers who sailed from New York on the steamship Tsar, of the Russian-American Line, which was

CAPT. LAWRENCE J. CIGALE, N. V. E. S.
Who Organized the Russian-American Red Cross Society

docked alongside the steamship Red Cross before she left, were twenty-five young physicians and pharmacists who have been sent to the battlefields in Europe to aid the sick and wounded.

The Russian-American Red Cross Society announced yesterday at its headquarters, No. 67 South Third street, that there were twenty-five more men ready to go as soon as the necessary funds have been obtained for their transportation.

Captain Dr. Lawrence J. Cigale, of the National Volunteer Emergency Service, organized the Russian-American Red Cross Society, which is composed of young physicians, dentists, pharmacists and medical students. As soon as hostilities began in Europe, he banded his little society together, and for weeks drilled them in first aid maneuvers, military hygiene, etc. Every Sunday there was a review and drill in some park or some school playground. These drills were under the personal supervision of Dr. Cigale, Professor Elias L. Durmashkin, of the Moscow University; Dr. Henry de Krasnow, of the University of Illinois; Dr. Ralph Durmashkin, of Bellevue Medical College, and Dr. Philip Berzano, a candidate for Senator in the primary election.

The Servian and Russian consuls have promised the doctors their financial aid, and showed their approval of the latest Red Cross movement here by donating funds for the passage of the next twenty-five.

Nurses from the Montefiore Home and sisters of the young men who left have made applications for enlistment, but their applications have not been accepted because the doctors believe that the winter campaigns might prove too strenuous for the young girls, who are so anxious to do some act of mercy. Some of the girls said that they will defray their own expenses if they are accepted.

UP WAVES I

If this story was broadcast over the radio you would muffle your ears.

Feeling the need of the solicitude and companionship of a faithful helpmate, Dr. Lawrence John Cigale, a dentist, 71 St. Marks Place, invoked the aid of the Supreme Court to dissolve his marriage to Mrs. Pelagia K. Cigale, whom he married in Odessa, Russia, in 1915, while serving in the Medical Corps of the Russian Army, and who disappeared on November 2, 1917.

Dr. Cigale believes that Pelagia is dead, and in his petition relates the details of his search to locate his missing wife, as follows:

"I departed for Odessa and called on Police Inspector Pavlichenko of the Petropovloska District; then visited M. Barsky of 42 Robeloska Street, and Counselor Spivak of 3 Kanatona Street; Piwnak and entreated them to find my Pelagia. I also engaged M. Theddor Radinov, T. Joseph Skwirtsky and Adam Slipchenko of 4 Dokovskywitch Street to search for my dear Pelagia, but they all failed to find any trace of her.

"The last time Pelagia was seen alive was in 1917 at 139 Storoportafrankovska Street in Odessa."

WEDS BARONESS HE MET AS A NURSE

Dr Cigale Marries Sister of Latvian Official

NEW YORK, Nov 8—Baroness Helene von Korzen Parondladis, a sister of Albert Karl von Korzen, Minister of Finance for Latvia, was married in City Hall today to Dr Lawrence Cigale, formerly an officer in the Medical Corps of the Russian Czar's army.

Dr Cigale obtained a divorce from his former wife last June under the Enoch Arden law. His wife disappeared during the Russian Revolution. Dr Cigale came to this country before the outbreak of the war in 1914, but later returned to Russia and reentered the medical corps. In 1917 he returned to this country and served as captain in the Army Medical Corps at Fort Jay, Governor's Island.

Since the close of the war he has been practicing medicine in New York and it was through an advertisement for a nurse that he met the baroness, who had taken up nursing for a livelihood.

Terrors of Russian Revolt Wiped Out in Wedding Here

Memories of the Russian revolution and the overthrow of the Czar were revived in City Hall yesterday when Chief City Clerk Michael J. Cruise married Dr. J. Lawrence Cigale, 44, of 71 St. Mark's pl., and the Baroness Helen Von Korzun-Parondiadis, 27, who came here two years ago from Riga, Russia.

Dr. Cigale was before the public last June when he obtained an "Enoch Arden" divorce from his wife, who mysteriously disappeared during the Russian revolution. The doctor, who came here in 1914, was an officer in the Medical Corps of the Czarist forces. After the disappearance of his wife he returned to Russia and served in the Medical Corps, but returned here in 1917 and was assigned as a captain in the Medical Corps of the Army at Fort Jay, Governors Island.

The Baroness' first husband, Parondiadis, was killed in the Balkans during the war. Early this year Dr. Cigale advertised for a nurse attendant for his office, and the Baroness applied for the position and was employed.

DENTIST IN DANGER OF DEPORTATION

NEW YORK, April 9.—Dr. Lawrence J. Cigale, a dentist, who fled from Odessa while the Bolsheviks were bombarding the city, is held at Ellis Island while influential friends try to persuade the State Department to save him from deportation. Before the United States became a belligerent he had a large practice in this city.

Dr. Cigale, as an alien, is in danger of deportation because of his haste on leaving Odessa he neglected to have a passport vised by the American consul. He fled with a group of Americans to Constantinople. He arrived here April 3d.

DIVORCE SOUGHT BY CHLOROFORM, PLEA IN ALIMONY

By JOSEPH COWAN.

She was chloroformed, overpowered and her clothing torn off in order to enable her husband, Dr. Lawrence J. Cigaley, east side dentist, to stage a raid and then sue her for divorce, his young wife, Mrs. Helene Cigaley asserts. The man named as co-respondent is 80 years old.

Bernard
H. Sandler

These accusations, now under investigation by District Attorney Joab H. Banton, were disclosed yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Ford awarded Mrs. Cigaley alimony and counsel fees.

Justice Ford was so impressed with Mrs. Cigaley's story, even in the absence of corroboration, that he wrote in his decision:

"But circumstances, which to say the least are extraordinary, may very well have placed it beyond Mrs. Cigaley's power to supply corroboration. There are highly suspicious features of the occurrence which lay the affidavits submitted in behalf of the plaintiff open to doubt."

Bernard H. Sandler, 150 Broadway, counsel for Mrs. Cigaley, brought the case to the attention of the district attorney's office. Assistant District Attorney Owen H. Bohan has been conducting an inquiry quietly for several weeks.

Dr. Cigaley, who has offices at 71 St. Marks pl., charges that he and two witnesses broke into the apartment of Joseph Buck, a broker, at 67 East 97th st., on Feb. 23d last, and found his wife and Buck, unclad, in a bedroom. Buck, according to Sandler, is an octogenarian.

Mrs. Cigaley, who says she is the descendant of a long line of Lettish barons, swears that she is the innocent victim of a plot concocted by her husband, Buck and others.

She admits having been in Buck's home but says she went there to talk to a client of Buck about some real estate that she had been entrusted to sell. She had left her husband because of his abuse, she declares, and was selling real estate to earn a living.

HEARING ON NEW ALIMONY
BILL SHUT OFF BY ESMOND

By ROBERT CONWAY.

Albany, March 10.—The codes committees of the senate and assembly held a joint public hearing here today on a bill to provide an investigation before the granting of temporary alimony and counsel fees in separation and divorce actions.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman William J. Sheldrick (Dem., N. Y., and Senator Duncan T. O'Brien (Dem., N. Y.), was finally withdrawn for revision to conform to suggestions made by the joint committee.

Sheldrick announced later that a committee of four lawyers had been formed to revise the bill, and it would be resubmitted next week.

Although a majority of the members of both committees appeared to favor the bill, the hearing was turned into a farce by the actions of Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond, chairman of the assembly codes committee.

Esmond opened the hearing by announcing that the dozen citizens who came here from New York City for the purpose of speaking in its favor would be limited to two minutes each.

Paul P. Travers, editor and publisher of a magazine dealing with the alimony racket, told the committee he had more than a thousand letters from victims of the alimony laws which he was ready to submit in support of the argument that the Sheldrick bill was urgently needed.

Frank J. Disessa, a lawyer with offices on Park Row, explained that the bill was not intended to deprive women who honestly required alimony, but to prevent gold-digging.

Before Disessa began to speak, Assemblyman Esmond walked out of the room.

The next speaker, Alfred A. Navazio, New York lawyer, said delegates did not advocate the elimination of alimony, but only restrictions to end alimony racketeering.

The next two speakers were victims of the alimony law.

Dr. Lawrence John Cigaley, of 71 St. Marks pl., Manhattan, gave his experiences in detail. Joseph Furst, of 2114 Aqueduct ave., Bronx, said he paid temporary alimony of $27 out of his $57 salary weekly.

Dr. C. R. Wilmer, president of the National Sociological league, was the next speaker. Before Dr. Wilmer had said a dozen words Assemblyman Esmond returned and interrupted with the suggestion that the bill be redrafted.

Siblings: Lawrence immigrated to the US. Another named Zaytas.

Lawrence John Cigaley (Cigal/Cigale), 9 May 1879 Odeska, Ukraine [then Odessa, Russia– 27 Jun 1940 Manhattan NY. Dentist.

His tombstone reads: “beloved brother” – Buried in Mount Hebron Cemetery, Flushing, Queens NY with prefix “Dr.” and surname Cigaley. NY. F: 5642321

In the 1910 census for Manhattan, NY, Leiser Cigal, age 31, born Russia/Yiddish, parents b. Russia/Yiddish, single, lived on 3rd St. He was a dentist in general practice. In his household were 3 male boarders: Moses J. Schwertz, Leo E. Kolton & Harry Kovnor.

When he applied for a US passport on 8 Jun 1911, he used the name Lazar John Cigal. He was, however, not a US citizen. He was age 32, born Odessa, Russia, 9 May 1879, a resident of Manhattan NY. He said he had emigrated to the US on the SS “Frankfurt” from Bremen, Germany, arriving 17 Nov 1904 & living in the US for 6 years until the application. He had filed papers to be a declarant on 16 Sep 1910. Lazar affixed a doctor’s letter saying that he needed to go abroad for his health.

“Brooklyn Citizen” 2 Oct 1914 p 7 – “More Young Men as Red Cross Aids” – “25 Brooklynites to Go Abroad” – photo of Lawrence in uniform – 25 physicians & pharmacists are going abroad to give care on the battlefields. Captain Lawrence Cigale, organizer of the Russian-American Red Cross Society, gathered physicians, dentists, pharmacists & medical students & when war began in Europe, drilled them on first-aid maneuvers, military hygiene, etc. Other teachers were from Moscow University, the University of Illinois, Bellevue Hospital, etc. Lawrence is a captain in the National Volunteer Emergency Service. Hospital nurses & sisters of the volunteers also volunteered, but it was thought a winter campaign might prove too strenuous for women.

Lawrence arrived in NY the second time when he immigrated at age 40, arriving in NYC (Ellis Island) on 2 Apr 1920 aboard the "Black Arrow" which had left Constantinople, Turkey. Born Odessa, Russia. Father: John Cigale, 139 Star-Portofran, Kovskya Street, Odessa, Russia. Final destination: New York City. Passage paid by Workaways. Was in US previously, living in NY for 10 years. His brother, Mayer Cigal, lives at 206 W. 14th St., NYC. Height: 5'2". Dentist. Married.

According to a newspaper account, he, an alien but with a longtime dental practice in NYC, had fled from Odessa to Constantinople when the Bolsheviks were bombarding Odessa, but without a proper visa from the US Embassy. Upon his arrival in the US, he was detained by the US State Department under threat of being deported, but numerous people intervened on his behalf.

Lawrence was naturalized as US citizen 2 Jul 1920 in Southern District of NY. Born 9 May 1879 Russia. Wife is Pelageia Cigale. Age 41, dentist. Height: 5'4", 145 lbs. Lives at 41 St. Mark's Place, NYC. Arrived in NYC on 17 Apr 1920 from Constantinople, Turkey, on "Black Arrow." Applied for citizenship 2 Jul 1920.

On the next form, he lists his wife as Helena. Resident of 71 St. Mark's Place, NY. Helena was born 15 Oct 1897 in Latvia. Dental surgeon. Arrived NYC 2 Apr 1920. Petition dated 9 Mar 1926.

Lawrence's marriage 8 Nov 1924 Manhattan NY – "Lancaster (PA) News-Journal" 10 Nov 1924 p 5 – At the Municipal Building in NYC on 8 Nov 1924, by a city clerk, Dr. J. Lawrence Cigaley, dentist, age 44, married Baroness Helene von Korzun-Parondiadis, age 27. He gained the right to marry through NY's "Enoch Arden" divorce law. [if spouse has been absent 7 years, can be declared dead] This law was passed to protect female victims of desertion, but it can work both ways. Lawrence was married in Russia to Pelegia K. Cigale of Odessa, Russia. Following the outbreak of the Kerensky revolution, they were separated. He gave her up for lost & got a divorce under the new law. He originally came to the US in 1914, a former officer in the medical corps of the Czarist forces. He later returned to Russia & served in the medical corps again. When the US joined the Allies in 1917, he returned to the US & became a captain in the medical corps of the US Army at Fort Jay, Governor's Island. After leaving the Army, he established a practice in NYC. The baroness answered his advertisement for a nurse. The "striking brunette" came to the US two years ago from Russia, and has filed her first citizenship papers. Her 1st husband, Paroniadis, was killed "in the last war" between Greeks & Turks. She has been on the stage. Her brother is Albert Karl von Korzun, now the minister of finance in the new republic of Latvia. The couple honeymooned in Atlantic City NJ.

His wife Helen Paronaidis was born 15 Oct 1897 in "Latvia, Russia." Lawrence & Helen/Helene married 8 Nov 1925.

The "Hartford (CT) Courant" 9 Nov 1924 p 22, adds they were married in City Hall, and that Dr. Cigale was divorced from his 1st wife in June 1923 under the Enoch Arden law. "Enoch Arden" was the title of a poem by Alfred Lord Tennyson, which told the story of Enoch Arden who went to sea and was shipwrecked. Upon his return home 11 years later, he found his wife remarried. Enoch left without revealing that he was still alive.

Newspaper coverage of marital problems:

"NY Daily News" 31 Mar 1927 p 1 – photograph of wife Helene – "Terror Story Wins Alimony" – Mrs. Helene Cigaley claimed that she was chloroformed & stripped of her clothing so that her husband, Dr. Lawrence Cigaley, could stage a raid to get divorce evidence. Supreme Court Justice Ford awarded her alimony despite the absence of corroboration.

Same issue on p. 14 – Lawrence Cigaley's photo, attorney Bernard H. Sandler's photo – Helene Cigaley claims she was chloroformed, overpowered & her clothing removed, so that East Side dentist Dr. Lawrence J. Cigaley, who has offices at 71 St. Mark's Place, could stage a raid. The co-respondent in the divorce case is 80 years old. Her attorney Bernard H. Sandler brought the case to the district attorney. Dr. Cigaley & 2 witnesses broke into the apartment of Joseph Buck, broker, at 67 E. 97th St., on 23 Feb 1927 & found Buck & Helene naked in the bedroom. Mrs. Cigaley is the descendant of a long line of Lettish [Latvian] barons & said she is an innocent victim of a plot concocted by Buck, her husband & others. She admits she was in Buck's home but went there to discuss real estate she was enlisted to sell with Buck's client. She had left her husband Lawrence because of his abuse & was selling real estate to make a living. She had met Buck at her husband's home & then met him again, since he might help sell the property, on a street corner where he was with another man. That man left & Buck invited her to his apartment, telling her the real estate client would be coming shortly. He approached her with a napkin which he put over her face; it had chloroform on it. She found herself in bed naked, and as she opened her eyes, she saw her husband, his brother [who presumably is Mayer] & another man standing by the bed. She got to her feet & got dressed; her clothes were torn. That same night she was served papers in a divorce suit by her husband.

"New York Daily News" 11 Oct 1927 p 216 – photo of wife Helene - "The dove of peace again coos in the home of Dr. Lawrence J. Cigaley." Lawrence had sued his wife Helen for a divorce; her attorney, Bernard H. Sandler, effected a reconciliation just as the action was called for trial in the Supreme Court yesterday. Lawrence tore up the divorce papers in Sandler's office at 150 Broadway; therefore, the name of the co-respondent, age 80, was not disclosed. Helene has steadfastly maintained her innocence.

Lawrence Cigaley, 50 Odessa, Russia, parents b. Odessa, Russia. Divorced. Dentist, own office. Not a veteran.

"NY Daily News" 11 Mar 1931 p 480 – a joint public hearing was held by the codes committees of the NY Senate & Assembly, on a bill to provide an investigation before the granting of temporary alimony in separation & divorce actions. The bill was withdrawn for revision. The hearing was turned into a farce by Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond, chairman of the Assembly Codes Committee, who told a dozen citizens who had come from NYC that each could only speak for 2 minutes – then walked out on the 1st witness. One of the "victims" was Dr. Lawrence John Cigaley, 71 St. Mark's Place, Manhattan, who "gave his experience in detail."

Five Members of the New York Organization Tour Through New England - ^Visit Seral Cycle Factories En Route

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 7.- Five members of the Century Road Club Association left this city Sunday, July 15, for a two weeks' trip throughout New England. In the party were Raymond Caldwell, Joseph Caldwell and Chris Bohn, on Iver Johnson bicycles; George Steppello, on a Tribune, and Mayer Cigal, on a New England bicycle. All five used Palmer tires. During the entire tour very little bicycle trouble was encountered and the trip was one of pleasure as well as an instructive

The party left here at 6:45 p. m. and they encountered roads that were slippery from a heavy dew. Albany was reached at 3 p. m. on July 16. The following day Albany was left behind at 9:15 a. m. The roads were in fairly good condition except in stretches which were under repair. After climbing the Lebanon hill, which is four miles long, Pittsfield was reached in time for dinner. After leaving Pittsfield the party climbed the Jacobs Ladder hill and reached Westfield at 8:30 p. m.

VT/PITTSFIELD, Mass.- On Wednesday morning the Columbia factory was visited by a delegation of the Long Island Division of the Century Road Club Association, including George Steppello, Joseph S. Caldwell, Mayer Cigal, C. Bohn and Ray Caldwell.

These riders, mounted on light road racing bicycles, left New York at 5 p. m. Sunday evening and arrived in Albany at 4 p. m. Monday. After a short stay in Albany they started off Tuesday night and arrived at the factory in Westfield Wednesday morning.

They are routing their return trip to New York via Boston and Providence. One of the two wheelers which made this stiff trip was an 18-year-old Tribune, and this one rode as smoothly and easily, so the

On July 18 the tourists were welcomed at the Westfield Mfg. Co.'s plant, where two hours was spent in going through the factory. After indulging in a good meal the start for Worcester was made and that city was reached at 7 o'clock that night. Tourist Butler, of the St. Louis Cycle Club, who is touring the country, was met at Worcester as well as some of the representatives of the J. W. Grady Co., makers of the New England and Red Wing bicycles.

Shortly after breakfast on the 19th the cycling tourists met Major Taylor, (he old time cyclist, who encouraged the party to wait over for the Worcester Cycle Club's meet at Greendale on the 21st. This the party decided to do and they performed well in the races. Mayer Cigal ran third in the championship race to Staehle and Byron, and the C. R. C. A. team ran third in the team pursuit race.

During the afternoon of the 19th the party rode to Fitch burg, Mass., where the plant of the Iver Johnson Cycle & Arms Co. was visited. The party missed Mr. Johnson, but they were escorted through the factory by Mr. Smith, as it was an interesting study to see how Iver Johnson bicycles were made. The following day as well was spent in Fitchburg and the Simonds Saw Co.'s plant was visited. After going bathing at Whalon they left Fitchburg for Worcester to await the races on the following day.

Vacation Ends at Worcester

After the Worcester Cycle Club's meet Bohn, Cigal and Ray Caldwell were obliged to return to this city via steamer, as their vacations had ended, but Joe Caldwell and Steppello continued the tour. As the trio were leaving they met Bob Lawson, the trans continental cyclist, who was on a business trip. Sunday, July 22, Joe Caldwell and Steppello rode to Boston and after touring around the Hub they started for Providence and arrived at the latter city at 7:30 p. m.

An early start was made from Providence on the 23d. The two hardy pedal artists left that city at 6:10 a. m. for Narragansett Pier and New London, reaching the latter city at 4 o'clock that afternoon. They caught the first boat for Sag Harbor, L. I., the following day and started home via the Shore Road, and they arrived at Bay Shore at 7 p. m. The tour ended at Jamaica, L. I., the following day.

WORCESTER. Mass., July 22.— Over 2,000 excited fans turned out yesterday for the card of bicycle races that were conducted on the Fair Grounds track by the Worcester Cycle Club. Some of the best amateurs of the country competed t events, among them being John L. Staehle, the American amateur champion of 1916-'17.

by Toh

The big event on the card was the 10-mile championship. John L. Staehle lived up to his reputation of a champion by winning the event handily from Ed Byron, the Australian, and Uyer Cigal, the New Yorker. The half-mile open also went to Staehle, with Byron second. William Eager, a Newark rider, came home in third place and Myer Ogal landed fourth place.

the representatives of the manufacturers and other exhibitors at the Show, and the booth at all times attracted the fullest attention of the public.

Following the Point Race and under the leadership of Captain Mayer Cigal, twenty members lined up for two hours' drill and instructions in army maneuvers and foot work. Much progress was made in teaching the members the necessary steps and turns and other flank movements that were described by the Captain, and it is hoped that within a short time an efficient Cycle Corps shall have been established in the New York Division. The Captain next Sunday will appoint sub-officers who will give individual attention to the less efficient members, and from that time on, rapid strides are expected to be taken in improving the condition and other qualifications that may be found in the members to have them fit to enter with the Cycle Corps as an organization in the United States Army if deemed necessary.

OF THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WHEELMEN 187

We have quite a few riders in the L. A. W. who can ride the wheel over a great distance. Some of them will give an exhibition of their endurance at the W. A. T. H. to-morrow. Wm. M. Winkvist, of New York, Member No. 1024, made a total riding record last year of 6,386 miles, which included 38 centuries, 1 double century, and a record ride from New York to St. Louis. Sylvain Segal, Member No. 953, made a total riding record of 3,620 miles, which included 4 centuries. Mayor Cigal, Member 1030, made a total riding record of 750 miles, including 5 centuries. These records were made in competition, on the road, under the banner of the C. R. C. A. The riders are enrolled with us and we feel that we may also claim and exploit their achievements on the wheel. We have several husky riders with us tonight who have done wonderful stunts on the wheel. Geo. L. Cooke, of Providence is no longer young, but we look to him this year to ride for the fourteenth time over the road from Providence to Boston; on the tour about the Hub, and back home to Providence.

feet scores. Hot competition was had in the five mile race held previous to reaching the dinner stop at Bay Shore, L. I. The so-called Pleasure Division started from Columbus Circle at 7 o'clock, A. M., under the guidance of Chief Pacemaker, George Steppello, Willard Knecht and Mayer Cigal reached Jamaica, the first stop, and met the Pleasure Division from Bedford Rest, Brooklyn, which was under the guidance of Irving Markowitz and W. M. Winkvist. The combined divisions formed 80 riders, and with excellent roads to ride on soon reached Freeport, where refreshments were indulged in. Leaving Freeport and spinning along the Merrick Road to Amityville, thence to Babylon, where both Pleasure Divisions waited for the finish of the five mile race which the riders of the Fast Division were to engage in. While waiting for the race to finish a pole-climbing contest up a 25 foot flag pole took place. Three men succeeded in reaching the top: - George Steppello, L. P. Sattler and Edwin Jensen, but no others. The five mile was won by L. P. Sattler; Raymond Caldwell, second; Eugene Acklin, third. Leaving Bay Shore, the dinner stop, at 2 P. M., the Pleasure Divisions retraced the route along the Merrick Road to Belmore, to Hempstead, where a short stop was made. Then home to Brooklyn and New York. Fourteen cycling organizations were represented in the event. The Silver Loving Cup was won by the New England Wheelmen, which scored 41 points

Off the wheel and up in the air. - The Century Road Club Association has again proved its right to the title of the "Leader of them AH" and this time in a conclusive way, when George Steppello who is connected with the Aero Squadron in Kelley Field, Texas, writes that he has gone up in Aeroplanes four times, and, by the way this is really the first that any cyclist of "around New York" has been known to go up in the air in the service of Uncle Sam. Steppello. writes on a post card received May 14th, that he is "On the train, bound for Somewhere. I had four rides in an aeroplane this week, as I was on guard at night at one of the Fields and rode to and from work in the Ship. Deep stuff, Eh? What? Cattle look smaller than small dogs from up in a "Ship" as the aeroplanes are called." At the present time of more than 25 members of the Association who are in the "Service" the following are known to be with the American Expeditionary Forces : Alexander Whytock, L. A. AVetzel, Meyer Cigal, Harry Curley. Submitted by Sylvain Segal.

Mr. Miles urged the formation of an organization to promote the rural express movement, saying that while the project should appeal to all from a patriotic viewpoint because of its realization would aid greatly in the conservation of foodstuffs and of labor, it would also be to the financial advantage of the truck dealers, as well as the truck owners, farmers and consumers.

The directors were very favorably impressed with the project, especially in its aspect of being a patriotic aid in the present national crisis, and they decided to have another meeting, at which the sales managers will be present, with the object of organizing, as suggested by Mr. Miles.

written to his friends regarding life across the sea. He writes among other things : -

"Of course, ever since I landed I began to look for cycling clubs, and not till I reached thi> place (name deleted and where I could hire a bicycle did I come across a lady riding a bicycle, and almost immediately we became friends. She was a member of a cycling club called the Scottish Union of Clarion Cycling Club, with branches in different cities. Of course I spent a couple of hours in exchanging stories. I broke all the records and missed the mileage competition by only a couple of miles. AA^hen going out for a ride over here it is necessary to bring along a ket some tea and sugar, for these things are scarce in road houses; besides, they don't have any races, and wdien people go out, as a rule, the entire family goes, too."

Mayer Cigal, it will be remembered, w^as aboard of the transport Tuscania, which was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine off the Irish coast. Cigal says that he lost everything except what clothing he escaped in. He says that he will try and do a century if he gets a chan after locating at a permanent base.
