HALVORSON TELLS STORY OF DEATH OF WILLARD GARRETT ENDING DEFENSE TESTIMONY

Fired After Two Bullets Pierced Door

EARLY QUARREL TOLD

Head Wounds Found in Post Mortem Examination Remain Unexplained—Bullet Cause of Death, Physicians Agree

Relating in detail the circumstances attending the killing of Willard Garrett on the night of July 1, Ed Halvorson, accused of the second degree murder of Garrett, took the stand in his own defense shortly after circuit court opened this morning, then submitted to a grilling cross examination by Special Prosecutor L. H. McMahan. The prosecutor, in his questioning emphasized particularly that Halvorson had made no effort to avoid an encounter with Garrett, although believing that the latter intended violence. The defense rested at 11:45 o'clock.

Halvorson went to the Garrett place between 9 and 10 o'clock on the night of the tragedy, found no one at home, and had retraced his steps some 50 feet when he saw Garrett coming up from the gate with a shovel over his shoulder, the witness testified. As he greeted Garrett, the latter asked him what he was doing out so late, and Halvorson replied by asking for help with his haying on the following day. "Garrett said he was working, and wouldn't work for me anyway," the witness said.

Declares Death Threat Made

"I asked him why, and he said there had been a chicken thief around, and he was going to get him," the witness continued, stating his belief that Garrett was making an accusation against him.

"I started for home, and had got about half way when I heard a shot, and then another," Halvorson went on. "I waited six or seven minutes, then started on for home again."

"I sat up for eight or ten minutes, and was ready to roll my bed down when I saw somebody coming up to the gate. It was Garrett, and I thought, 'there's evil on his mind.' I got my revolver, put it in my hip pocket, and threw open the door. By that time Garrett was in front of me."

Halvorson greeted Garrett, asked him what was the matter and was answered by a foul epithet, and an accusation of having turned out Garrett's horses. Halvorson denied the charge.

"Come out for the last time in the world. I'll kill you," the witness quoted Garrett as saying.

Heard Garrett Moan

"I saw his right hand start for his pocket, and I slammed the door and swung to one side. Two bullets came through the door, and missed me. I opened the door a little, and saw a dark object standing there. I fired. Then I closed the door and went back and closed the back door.

"I looked out the window and saw a dark spot on the ground near the gate. I thought it must be Garrett, and then I heard a moan. I said: 'Mr. Garrett, are you hurt?' There was no answer."

Halvorson next went to the telephone, called the E. A. Griffin home, and was given the number of the police station. He was afraid to strike a light and look in his own telephone book, for fear that Garrett might be "playing possum," and shoot him, he said. He called the police station, reporting the case, but no one was sent out. Later he called L. D. Wiest, who notified the county authorities. They arrived early on the morning of July 2.

Earlier Attack Related

In regard to the controversy over Garrett's cow, which had died in December, 1921, Halvorson testified that Garrett had come to his house in the early morning, seized him by the collar, dragged him from his chair, forced him at the point of a gun to cross the snow covered fields in his slippered feet, accusing him of having poisoned the animal. Garrett was raising his gun to shoot when Mrs. Cora Baxter slipped behind him and took the gun from him, the witness said.

"I'll let you go this time," Halvorson declared Garrett said, "but if that cow's going to die I'll come over and plug you."

A few days later the two met,

Halvorson Tells Story of Death of Willard Garrett

made up their difference, and shook hands, the defendant said.

Under cross examination, Halvorson reiterated that he thought Garrett meant to kill him when he saw him approaching the house. He admitted that he could possibly have made his escape by a rear door and hidden in outbuildings, but thought that Garrett might have killed him anyway. He fixed the time of his visit at Garrett's home as between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, stating that he had looked at his own clock just before starting. He denied having shot at Mrs. Baxter's son, Joe, earlier in the year.

Borrowed Revolver

The shots were fired just as Hal-

Relatives on Stand

Halvorson did not call out for Garrett when he called at his ranch, he said. In the conversation a little later, Garrett appeared unsteady on his feet, and did not seem normal, he stated on re-direct questioning. Halvorson denied that he was excited at the time of the shooting. "I didn't have time to get excited," he explained. Halvorson described in detail the interior of his house.

On state rebuttal, G. H. Moser and Riley Garrett, relatives of Willard

Halvorson slammed the door, he said. His shot was a few seconds later; and Garrett was about two feet to the left of where he had last seen him, on the ground, but near the door. Garrett must have been on the steps when he fired, Halvorson thought. He could hear Garrett's teeth chattering when he spoke, before firing.

William Shelby had offered to lend Halvorson his revolver, after the cow episode, Halvorson said. On the night following that occurrence, or the next night, Halvorson had visited Shelby, and asked why he had not come to his assistance. Shelby replied that he could not tell from what direction he had called. After hearing the story, Shelby had insisted that Halvorson take the revolver. It had five cartridges in it at that time. Halvorson killed two rabbits and crippled two, at various times after that, with the revolver, he said.

"You're something of an expert with a revolver?" McMahan asked.

"No. Anybody can do that," was the reply. Halvorson had a shotgun in the house; but the stock was broken and the barrel bent, so that he did not depend on it,

Garrett, testified to the visit to the Halvorson ranch with McMahan and Gilson, and to Gilson's saying that Garrett's head could not have fallen where the rock was found. Riley Garrett said the rock was three and one-half feet toward the gate from where Gilson located the head, and a little to the right.

The jury spent the early part of the afternoon examining the scene of the tragedy.

Say Garrett Had Gun

Sheriff Roberts and Gilson were recalled to the stand earlier in the morning to testify to having talked with Mrs. Baxter at the Garrett place, early on the morning of July 2, and to have been told by her and her son that Garrett had been drinking heavily, and that he owned a .32 caliber Colt's automatic, the same size and make of gun as that found near Garrett's body. Sheriff Roberts stated that Mrs. Baxter had told him that Garrett had been carrying the gun.

Dr. Hendershott was recalled to testify as to the position and condition of the body.

Head Wounds Described

Shortly before Willard Garrett, Deschutes county rancher, was shot to death by Ed Halvorson, his neighbor, on the night of July 1, he was severely beaten about the head, one of the blows causing a fracture of the skull, others causing numerous bruises. This was the outstanding feature of the testimony introduced yesterday by the state, which rested at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. So far, no testimony has been produced to fix the responsibility for the head wounds, but from the emphasis placed on the examination of Dr. W. B. Morse, Salem physician, who conducted the autopsy on July 16 resulting in the discovery of the injuries, it became apparent that Special Prosecutor L. H. McMahan is pinning his hope for a conviction on the evidence given by Dr. Morse, and the corroborative testimony of Dr. E. Rea Norris of Bend.

Bullet Caused Death

Dr. Morse, on the stand, told of finding bruises over the right temple, above the right cheek bone, on the forehead, over the left temple, and at the top of the head. Under the one on the right temple was found a triple fracture. The brain and its sheath were intact, he said. He considered that the fracture would have produced unconsciousness, but that death itself was due to a bullet wound through the heart. This Halvorson admits having inflicted. The bullet was found just under the skin on the back of the body.

Bruises, both physicians pointed out, can only be inflicted before death. The head injuries, Dr. Morse said, could have been inflicted with any blunt instrument, such as the shovel found on the Garrett ranch, which earlier testimony had shown Garrett to have had in his possession the night of the tragedy. The state's attempt to introduce the shovel in evidence was successfully resisted.

Mrs. Troy Beaver testified to hearing shots on the night of the tragedy.

Finding of Body Told

Cora Baxter, Garrett's housekeeper, testified that she had found the house empty when she returned from Bend between 10 and 11 o'clock. She did not know that Garrett had been killed until the next morning. She denied that Garrett ever drank, contradicting the testimony of Ed Rogers, the state's first witness, who had been at the Garrett ranch on the fatal night when Garrett started off with his pistol in search of chicken thieves, and never returned.

The defense started its case with the introduction of E. D. Gilson, who told of finding Garrett's body within 10 paces from Halvorson's front door.

On cross examination, Gilson admitted that he might have stated, when he visited the scene of the shooting with Attorney McMahan, that Garrett's head could not have reached the rock in question; but he now believes that his measurement at that time erred in direction, and that the head might have been where the stone was found.

Sheriff Roberts related the occurrences of the morning of July 2, beginning about midnight, when he was called by L. D. Wiest, who told him that Halvorson had phoned and told him that he thought there was a man dying in his front yard. Roberts and his deputy, George Stokoe, left immediately, reaching the scene at about 12:30. Halvorson was standing near the rear door, and on being questioned by Roberts, told the story practically as he has since related it at the coroner's inquest and on other occasions.

Pistol Near Body

According to this story, Halvorson had called Mrs. Griffin, and she had told him to call 84, the police department. He did so, and the police had promised to notify the sheriff. The pistol which Halvorson said he had fired at Garrett was on the stove, said Roberts, and he took possession. This was introduced in evidence by the defense.

Garrett's body, said Roberts, was lying in the path, the head toward the gate, in a straight line with the house. Three tracks which he must have made were seen; had the body been raised erect from where it lay, one foot would have settled back into the last track. The markings corresponded to the soles of Garrett's shoes.

The automatic pistol was found beside the body, and two shells at about the distance to which they would have been ejected, said Roberts. He made no effort to leave the handle untouched, so that it could be fingerprinted.

Rock Found Near Head

The sheriff stepped the distance from Garrett's head to the house as 35 feet. At a later time he attempted to locate the same spot; and after doing so, he swept away the dust with a broom and located the rock, with what appeared to be a patch of blood beside it. He saw no rock on the night of the tragedy, he admitted.

Garrett, some time prior to the shooting, had met Roberts near the corner of the courthouse building and asked him what the penalty would be if he killed a Swede, the sheriff testified. At another time, in regard to the trouble over a cow, Garrett had said, "I made him go down and help me with her," mentioning Halvorson's name, said Roberts.

The testimony of Deputy Sheriff George Stokoe corroborated that of Roberts. On arriving at Halvorson's ranch house, Stokoe went to look at the body at once. Halvorson came with Roberts a few moments later and asked "Is he dead?" Stokoe replied that he appeared to be.

Dr. R. W. Hendershott turned the body over on his arrival, and a spot of something that appeared to be blood was under the mouth, said Stokoe.

Three Shots Heard

Mrs. L. S. Griffin testified that Halvorson had called her about 9:45 o'clock on the night of July 1, and told her what had occurred. She had told him the phone numbers to call, Halvorson saying he was afraid to light a lamp for fear Garrett was playing "possum." She had listened while Halvorson talked to the chief of police. Her husband was away from the house, irrigating, she stated.

E. A. Griffin had heard three shots, two in quick succession and one several seconds later, about 9:30 o'clock, he said. He was working about 240 rods from Halvorson's house, in his own field. Griffin had known Halvorson for 19 or 20 years, he said on cross examination, and they had always been friendly. Attorney McMahan questioned Griffin closely as to his whereabouts earlier in the evening.

One Man Can Be Riot, They Claim On Ninth Avenue

Hectic Half Hour Furnished
By R. G. Garrett Was Riot In Their Eyes

IF it is within the realm of possibility for one man to create a riot, then R. G. Garrett, carpenter of 5424 Ninth Avenue, can rightfully claim that distinction.

Nearly a score of excited residents in the vicinity of Fifty-third Street and Tenth Avenue yesterday afternoon frantically telephoned the police station regarding "a wild man" who, they asserted, was breaking down doors, collecting washtubs and sofa pillows, throwing rocks at an automobile, setting fire to gasoline tanks and dancing the tango with a barrel of vinegar in a corner grocery store.

They Go in Force.

Officers in armored police cars and the patrol wagon, and Traffic Officer William Horstmeyer on his motorcycle, sped to the scene of the "riot" with the sirens on their vehicles sounding.

As the police arrived at Tenth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, Garrett had just completed partially wrecking his automobile by throwing rocks through the windshield, the auto lens and other breakable parts and was then preparing to start a miniature bonfire under the car. Another fire was burning within a short distance of a gasoline tank and as a result witnesses of the affair were lengthening the distance between the tank and themselves.

On Collecting Tour.

An investigation by Horstmeyer disclosed, that officer reported, that Garrett had broken in the door to the home of Mrs. H. Borges at 3233 Fifty-third Street while members of the family were absent and had gathered up five sofa pillows, a can of milk, a washtub and a piece of garden hose.

He then departed for a nearby store in his automobile. Here he engaged an innocent barrel of vinegar in a dance, resulting in the vinegar being spilled over the floor. It was while he was thus engaged that a relative removed the distributor from his automobile.

When Garrett discovered that his car was unable to work, he then took steps to demolish it.

Jail Ride Ends It.

The police officers quelled the riot by taking Garrett to the city jail and booking him on a drunk charge. Later Mrs. Borges, owner of the house from which Garrett took the pillows and washtub, swore to a complaint charging disturbing the peace.

Garrett pleaded guilty to the charge in the police court to-day and was given a sixty-day suspended sentence. Police Judge Frank L. Gafney extracted a promise from the defendant that he wouldn't "touch another drop for four months."

THREE REPORT ROBBERIES

Garrett, 435 East 62d street north, complained that prowlers entered a shed and stole $75 worth of carpenter's tools.

Lighting a pipe in a room filled with gas causes a reaction something like a minor earthquake. Or so Riley G. Garrett, 56, 1143 S. W. 12th avenue, discovered Monday, police reported.

Garrett was said to have turned the gas plate on in his apartment without lighting it. Then, police said, he struck a match. The result was an explosion which gave other tenants in the apartment house a real jolt.

Garrett was found by police in front of the building. He was unhurt but intoxicated, police said. He was booked on a drunkenness charge. No visible damage to the building was reported.

DIED—Sunday, Nov. 16, Geneva Maude Garrett, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Garrett, at the home in Crane. The remains were brought to this city for interment and the funeral service was conducted the following afternoon by Rev. B. S. Hughes of the Presbyterian church, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crozier, grandparents of the child. The bereaved relatives have the sincere sympathy of many friends in this community where they formerly resided. The little child was born here and during the absence of the father in France where he went as a soldier, the mother and child lived in Burns.

OBITUARY.

[Contributed]

William Riley Garret was born in Linn county Mo. Oct. 23rd. 1842. He crossed the plains in 1852 with a team of oxen, on his way to Linn county Oregon. He settled near Peonia and later moved to Halsey.

He was married to Margaret Carter in 1864. To this union twelve children were born, five of whom are still living. His wife died in 1886.

He was converted at the age of 48 and joined the M. E. Church South, and had continued a faithful member.

In 1887 he was married to Naomi Esther Carter. Three children were born to this union. All of these are still living.

In 1905 he sold his property at Halsey and moved to Harney Co. Settling on a homestead on Silver Creek he made this his home till last March, when he was compelled to move to Burns where his wife could receive medical care. After several months of suffering his wife passed away three weeks ago, triumphant in the faith.

Constantly watching by the bedside of his loved wife so sapped his strength that when she passed away he seemed to have no strength left. His heart was with her and when after a weeks visit with his daughter, Mrs. Lute Mace he returned home and was taken with eryseplas he only lasted a short time. Everything that loving hands and medical skill could do was done but he was not for this world. At 3-20 A. M. Tuesday Aug. 17th. he passed to his reward without a struggle.

Eight children and one brother are left to mourn their loss. The brother is Mr. J. H. Garrett of Crook county. The children from the first wife, James O., William E., Charles A., Thomas M., and Ora Mace. And from the second wife, Mrs. Daisy Buchannan, Burns, Riley Glenn Garrett and Mrs. Naomi Choate, of Riley; also C. A. Carter, a step-son, of Burns.

The many friends of the family extend to them their hearty sympathy in this time of deep sorrow.

The funeral services were held from the Nazarene church. Entombment was made in the Burns Cemetery. Rev. S. L. Flowers in charge.

Mother:

Esther Naomi Jones was born in Wisconsin October 22nd, 1852. She was converted and joined the M. E. Church South in early life to which church she has been a faithful member since.

She came to Oregon in 1884 and was married to W. R. Garrett July 4th, 1887.

At 11 o'clock on the night of July 24th, in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roe Buchanan, she passed to her reward, leaving behind her a clear testimony that she was ready to go. A little while before she died, she quoted St. John 14:2. "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you." And called for some songs to be sung.

She suffered much, but like her Savior, she bore all patiently, thus proving that: "He is able to keep that which I have committed to Him against that day."

There are left to mourn their loss, her husband and five children: Daisy Buchanan of Burns, Glenn Garrett of Riley, Naomi Choate of Riley, and two older children by a former husband, J. H. Carter of Ellensburg Washington and C. A. Carter of Burns. Also two step children who are present; T. M. Garrett of Riley and Orah Mace of Burns.

The funeral services were held from the Nazarene church at Burns Ore. Rev. S. L. Flowers in charge. Interment was made in the Burns cemetery.

The tender sympathies of the host of friends of this family was proven by the large attendance at the funeral service.

homestead on July 5, 1890, at Peoria, to William W. and Naomi (Jones) Garrett. During her senior year of high school she got smallpox and nearly lost here eyesight. Her physician would not allow her to finish school.

On Dec. 23, 1908, she married William Monroe "Roe" Buchanan in Burns. They lived on his father's ranch at Harney and later settled on their own homestead bordering the ranch. They moved to Burns where they lived in a hotel next to the livery stable where Roe worked for several years until it burned down. After the fire Mrs. Buchanan and her husband accompanied 18 boys, who were studying to be surveyors, to a survey camp on the river near Burns where Dollie cooked meals for the camp.

During World War I they moved to Portland where Roe worked in the shipyards. After the war ended they returned to Burns where he was the deputy county clerk of Harney County until moving to La Grande in 1922. Roe began working at his cousin Avery Harrison's Chevrolet garage. He then worked for M.J. Goss Motor Company for 30 years. He later worked for various automobile dealers in Union and Wallowa counties. At that time, the couple moved back and forth between La Grande and Enterprise.

Just after moving to La Grande, their 6-year-old daughter Theda was run over by a pickup truck and killed on her way home from school. Mr. Buchanan died in May 1969.

Mrs. Buchanan was a long-time member of La Grande's First Christian Church. She also was a member of the Rebekah Lodge, Royal Neighbors of America, Young Women's Education Association, and the Women's Benefit Association. She thoroughly enjoyed her life as a housewife and mother.

Survivors include her daughters Mrs. E.H. "Ellen" MacGre-gor, Vancouver, Wash., and Mrs. Keith "Jean" Walker, La Grande; five grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; two great-great-grandchildren; and other relatives and friends.

Her brother Riley Garrett, sister Naomi Bradford, 10 half-brothers and sisters and four step-brothers and sisters died earlier.

Friends who wish may make contributions to the First Christian Church Memorial Fund in care of Daniels Valley Funeral Chapel, 1502 Seventh St., La Grande.

Woman recalls McKinley shooting

Her father told her mother, 'I have some bad news'

By Michael Kane
Observer Staff Writer

There are quite a few people living today who can tell you where they were when they heard President Kennedy had died. Many can remember what they were doing when they learned that President Franklin D. Roosevelt died, as well. But how many can remember the day when they heard the news that President McKinley was shot?

Dollie Buchanan can. She was 11 years old.

"The neighbors had told my dad and he came in and said to my mom, 'Mother, I have some bad news.' That's when I heard the president was shot and everyone broke down crying."

Dollie has 10 decades of memories to look back on today as she celebrates her 100th birthday with about 70 friends and relatives at Valley View Care Center in La Grande.

Whenever someone's birthday reaches triple digits, everyone wants to hear about the history that person has witnessed. Dollie's memories are more of a personal nature, like the day her little brother was born.

She also remembers seeing her very first automobile, one of Oregon's first.

"It was a red Buick, I think it was, and it didn't have any doors," she said. "It was something."

Having lived here since 1922,

Dollie has also seen La Grande go through its own evolution. She saw the first sawmill in town pop up and saw most of the town's churches as they were being built.

She also had a role in part of the city's history. She was one of St. Joseph Hospital's last patients before it closed in 1966. She was having surgery for some

"repair work and several little things."

These days Dollie enjoys watching television. Her favorite shows are Jeopardy and Wheel of Fortune. But alas, with advancing age she has had to give up some of her favorite pastimes. Poor eyesight has forced her to give up reading.

"That's what I miss most more than anything," she said. "That and playing the piano."

But she still has her family and friends who visit her frequently. And many of them, including her daughter, Jean Walker, who lives in La Grande, will be with her today as she celebrates a century of living.
