...ttle From Battle Creek Boy.

February 8, 1918.

Dear Dad: Well, I am across O. K. so far. You doubtless saw in the papers of around Feb. 6th or 7th of the torpedoing off the coast of Ireland, of the transport U. S. Tuscania. Aforesaid transport happened to be the one upon which your oldest son blithely sailed the rolling deep. O nite, some little experience, believe me. Happened about five minutes to six on Tuesday, Feb. 5. We were pursuing our zig-zag way when suddenly there was an explosion like a very large fire-craeker and the ship bucked like a bronheo, and immediately took a great list to the starboard side. I had just finished eating and had gone below to my quarters for a few minutes. Came up on deck then and was standing aft on the port or left side of the vessel. The shock bounced me into the air a few inches and I lit in motion toward my station. Lined up to wait for our life boat to be lowered. There was practically no confusion and while not wishing to brag our company I can, without fear of telling a falsehood, state that with a few exceptions there was no excitement. Everyone treated it in a matter-of-fact manner.

Our first life boat got to the water but capsized. Some of the men were picked up and some pulled back onto the ship. The second life boat, the one I should have gone in, broke away on one end, descending to the water in a hurry. The surmise was that it had capsized, but later news shows that it righted but had slipped considerable water. I was almost immediately detailed to the upper deck to assist in launching a third boat, but before we succeeded in getting it over the Captain called us to the lower deck on the port side, saying that a torpedo boat was going to take us off. The torpedo boat did not materialize for a spell, but it soon came up on the starboard side and we got off there making the trip from the ship across to the torpedo boat via a rope. I was among the very last to get off and the torpedo boat left in a few minutes. Was in the rear hold along with a dozen or so others. Got ... do suppose there's but a bloom. boat pitched too much allow... job sleep. That were make speed.

Of course we lost everything except what we have on, but everyone was thankful enough to get away safe and sound. The papers here place the casualities at about 210, including officers, men and ships crew. Our company is about fifty short now, but there are still some to come in which were landed at other places. The casualities due to men losing their head and jumping overboard, and mainly to capsizing of life boats in launching. Believe me, those that jumped overboard soon regained their senses after striking that cold water. Many of them were pulled back on board. Personally, I dislike cold water, so after seeing our life boat enter the water so precipitously decided would stick with the ship and take chances of getting taken off. Couldn't see anything to get frightened about so long as had dry deck under me, so stood tight and kept my place in line. No good can come of losing ones head in such situations and the majority fully realized the fact and all seemed determined that if the time had come for us to "shuffle off this immortal coil" that we should do it like true American soldiers with never a squeal. Our captain was on the job all the time and proved himself every inch a man. Saw all his men off and was last over.

Evans, Fletcher and Davis pulled thru O. K. Evans came in same boat I did. Ran across him after landing. Fletcher and Davis landed in a different place, but were brought to where we are quartered today.

Too much cannot be said of the treatment we have received since landing. It simply can't be surpassed. Every possible effort has been made to make us comfortable. Our working equipment went on another boat so we will get to work as soon as we get more personal equipment.

The ship finally plunged beneath the briny between 9 and 10 p. m. We got off at 8115, so still had some three-quarters or an hour to spare. Take it from one who knows now those subs are wicked things, are worse than a rattle snake. Strike without a bit of warning. Occurrences such as these should bring the American people to a realization that everything possible should be done to bring the war to a speedy conclusion.

This is the first American transport sunk and it goes to show that no matter how well convoyed (and we were) they can still be reached by the "varmint of the deep." It was a narrow enough squeak and an experience one would not care to repeat very often. We are jolly well over our first experience with German warfare and for myself, I never felt better nor had less. There are many interesting things I might add but I'm afraid they might not get by. Oh, yes! didn't get a bit sea-sick, but saw some of them donating a livelihood to the fishes. Guess must close. With love,

Your son,

Verne.

ITS HISTORY AND TRADITION
VOLUME III
1804-1926

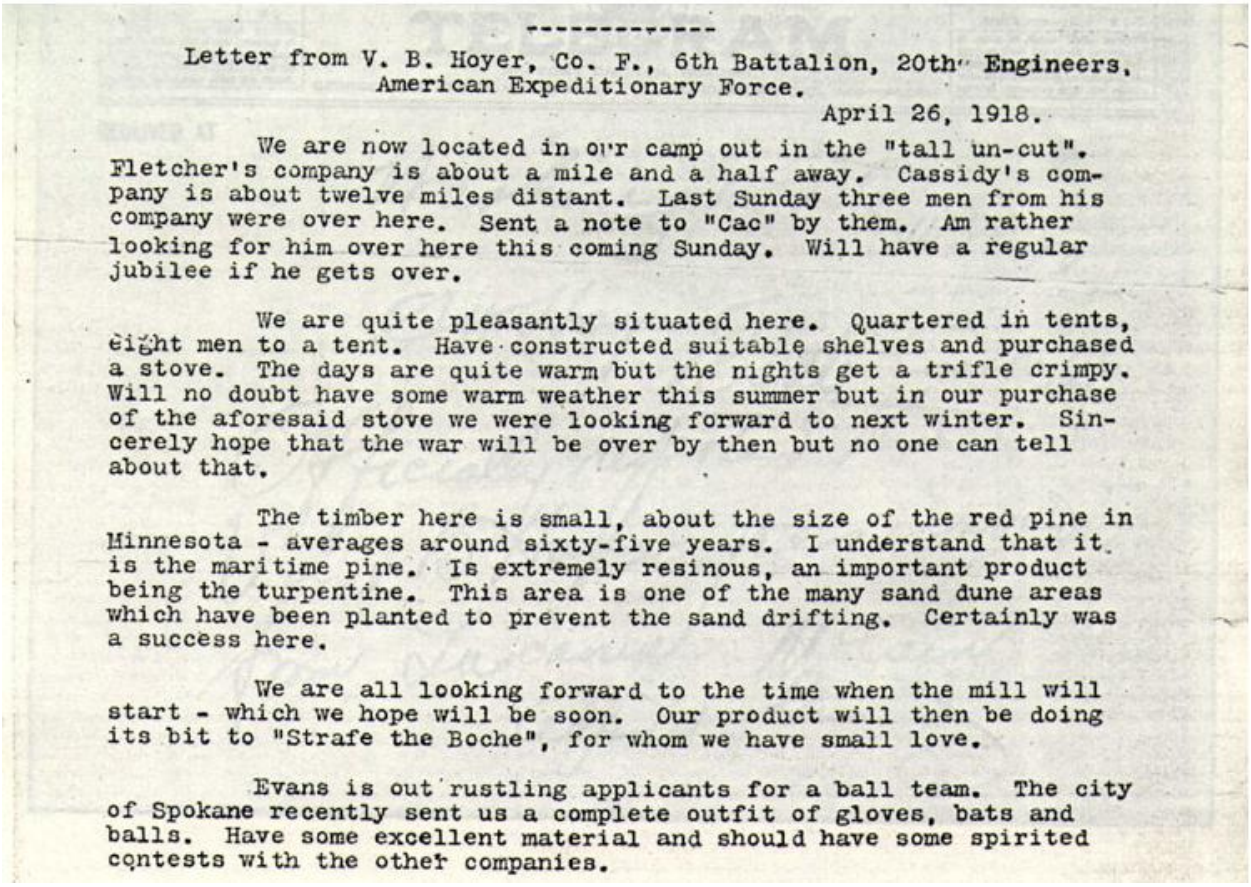

C. W. HOYER

Possessing that quality which has been aptly termed "the commercial sense," C. W. Hoyer has arrived at the goal of success, occupying a commanding position in business circles of Battle Creek, and he is also a leader in civic affairs. He was born December 22, 1867, in Boonesboro, Iowa, and there spent the period of his youth, completing his studies in business college at Burlington. On starting out in life for himself, Mr. Hoyer entered the grain business, with which he was connected for several years, and in 1893 located at Battle Creek. He has since devoted his attention to the lumber industry, and an extensive business is the visible expression of his initiative, foresight and administrative powers. He has also invested his capital in farm land and owns a valuable ranch of two hundred and forty acres in Plymouth County.

In 1894 Mr. Hoyer was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Schwab, and four children were born to them, namely: Lelia, who is the wife of C. W. Ohlsen, a prosperous farmer residing in Plymouth county; Verne B., who acts as principal of the Battle Creek high school and is also married; Lawrence E., musician and banker at Mitchell, South Dakota; and Roland D., who is connected with the Maple Valley Savings Bank. Mrs. Hoyer is an earnest member of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Hoyer is allied with the Democratic Party. His fellow townsmen, recognizing his worth and ability, have called him to positions of trust and responsibility, and in all of his official capacities he has shown the same executive force, keen sagacity and conscientious attention to detail which characterize his business dealings. He has been mayor of Battle Creek, was clerk of the court for twelve years and is now president of the school board. Along fraternal lines he is connected with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, the Knights of Pythias and the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Mr. Hoyer has wrought effectively for the public good and the respect accorded him is well deserved.

Letter from V. B. Hoyer, Co. F., 6th Battalion, 20th Engineers,
American Expeditionary Force.

April 26, 1918.

We are now located in our camp out in the "tall un-cut". Fletcher's company is about a mile and a half away. Cassidy's company is about twelve miles distant. Last Sunday three men from his company were over here. Sent a note to "Cac" by them. Am rather looking for him over here this coming Sunday. Will have a regular jubilee if he gets over.

We are quite pleasantly situated here. Quartered in tents, eight men to a tent. Have constructed suitable shelves and purchased a stove. The days are quite warm but the nights get a trifle crimpy. Will no doubt have some warm weather this summer but in our purchase of the aforesaid stove we were looking forward to next winter. Sincerely hope that the war will be over by then but no one can tell about that.

The timber here is small, about the size of the red pine in Minnesota - averages around sixty-five years. I understand that it is the maritime pine. Is extremely resinous, an important product being the turpentine. This area is one of the many sand dune areas which have been planted to prevent the sand drifting. Certainly was a success here.

We are all looking forward to the time when the mill will start - which we hope will be soon. Our product will then be doing its bit to "Strafe the Boche", for whom we have small love.

Evans is out rustling applicants for a ball team. The city of Spokane recently sent us a complete outfit of gloves, bats and balls. Have some excellent material and should have some spirited contests with the other companies.

FIVE AMES MEN ON TUSCANIA; ARE ENGINEERS

AMES, Ia., Feb. 8.—Solemnizing the presentation of the Iowa State college service flag came the news that five men from the college were on the transport that was reported sunk Tuesday. These men enlisted after Christmas in the forestry regiment of the Twentieth engineers.

They were all students of the forestry division, mostly in the junior and senior classes. They are R. A. Fletcher, V. B. Hoyer, John Evans, E. M. Davis, and George Hartman It is also believed that another man in the same group, Harley Quint, may have been on the unfortunate ship.

Acting President E. W. Stanton of the college made the speech presenting the flag to the student body. The flag contains 1,055 stars at present, each representing a student or alumnus from the institution that is in active service.

Boone, Feb. 9.—Relatives in this city received word of the death of Verne Hoyer on the ill-fated transport Tuscania. Hoyer was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoyer, of Ames, and has many friends in Boone.

ON ILL-FATED TUSCANIA.

Vern C. Hoyer, of Ida Grove, Sailed as Member of Minnesota Engineers.

Special to Times-Republican

Ida Grove, Feb. 9.—Vern C. Hoyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hoyer, former residents of this place, was a member of the Minnesota engineering corps on board the transport Tuscania, sunk by a German submarine, and whether or not he was among the rescued, his family have been unable to learn. During the time his father was clerk of the courts of Ida county the young man made his home here and graduated from the public schools. For two years the family have made their home at Ames, where the son was taking a course in engineering and would have graduated t' 's spring. He enlisted at Minneapolis about two months ago, and in a recent letter to his parents he said they expected to sail for France soon He was 21 years of age. As yet, no verification of his safety can be obtained, but a comrade from Ames and a fellow student in the college is mentioned among those landed in safety.

Leland S. Radcliffe, a nephew of Postmaster C. A. Britch, and well known in this city, was on the same boat with Vern Hoyer, but his name was among those saved. Young Radcliffe attended public schools here and made his home with his aunt, Mrs. Britch. For some months he was employed at Sioux City.

Clyde C. Pellem, Cedar Rapids, Only Iowan Not Accounted For.

WEBSTER CITY BOY IS REPORTED SAFE

Parents of William D. Lawrence Hear of Son's Rescue From Ship.

(Evening Tribune Special.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—Iowa's loss on the Tuscania has narrowed to one.

Clyde C. Pellem of Cedar Rapids is the one missing Iowan. The others, including William D. Lawtence, who was believed to have been missing until today, are accounted for.

There is a probability that Pellem may not have gone down with the ship, although his name so far does not appear in the list of survivors.

The war department today wired the parents of Lawrence that their son was safe.

The survivors from Iowa to date are:

Carl Vinquist, Des Moines; Harry D. Long, Nodaway; Robert Dorsett, Crescent; Ralph A. Fletcher, Marshalltown; Herbert F. Gustafson, Curlow; Lewis B. Rist, Algona; Carl C. NO SUCH WORD AS DEFEAT.

Ames Times: An extract from a letter just received from one of our home boys is a challenge to each one of us in Story county to do a full part in every opportunity given us to do war service.

Private Hoyer is one of the boys who was on the Tuscania when the Huns sank it with a submarine and he is now located in a danger zone which we in Iowa can not fully realize or appreciate.

The special War Savings week closes tonight and there are many who have not yet become a part of the great army of W. S. S. savers. It is not too late to join this army and the most we can do is surely little enough.

Ask your postmaster or banker about the War Savings stamps and after doing your duty in this matter, get ready for the next Red Cross drive, which must be another success.

There can be no such word as defeat for any part of Story county in meeting the calls for men and money.

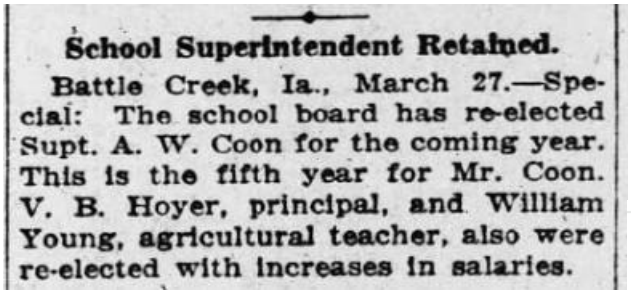

"Somewhere in France, April 20, 1918—"We are at last situated in what will be our home for some little time. This is one of the many sand dune areas scattered over France, that was planted to maritime pine for the purpose of fixing the sand and has proven a success. The sand is pure with no underbrush and will be easily logged.

"Our camp is about a mile and a half from a small village. We are quartered in tents, eight men to a tent, are quite comfortably fixed, and everyone is looking forward to the time when our product will be doing its little bit toward beating the boche, for whom we bear no love, let me assure you. As to the progress of the war, you no doubt are much better posted than we since our papers for which we have subscribed, the Paris editions of the Chicago and New York papers, have not yet begun to arrive.

"The attitude of the people here is worthy of note. Both the English and French, to say nothing of the Irish and the Scots, show a dogged determination to stick it out no matter what hardships it may entail. If the American people come through with the same spirit, there is no prospect of defeat. Sincerely,

"Private V. B. Hoyer,

The new group, Cottage Grove's first classified service club for women, was officially welcomed into the Soroptimist family Friday evening in charter presentation ceremonies at the Village Green.

Attending the dinner were members of Soroptimist Club of Eugene, sponsors of the new club, and members from Brookings, Klamath Falls, Portland, Salem, Olympia and Vancouver, Wash., Soroptimist clubs, as well as delegations from other service organizations and city and county officials. Soroptimist clubs now are organized in 39 countries, with a total membership of more than 50,000, reported Mrs. Quarnberg, who now is a member of the international board.

She urged the new club to put into action the five standards of Soroptimism: To promote high ethical standards of women in the professions and business, advance the status of women, develop a spirit of friendship and unity, quicken a spirit of service and human understanding, contribute to international understanding and universal friendship.

Richard Warnock was a direct descendant of a member of the Irish parliament and the patriarch of a prominent Iowa family.

In 1871, Ella's grandfather, Richard Warnock and his best friend, George Ferguson, moved their families across the prairie to Ida County, after being pursued by hostile Indians on the way.

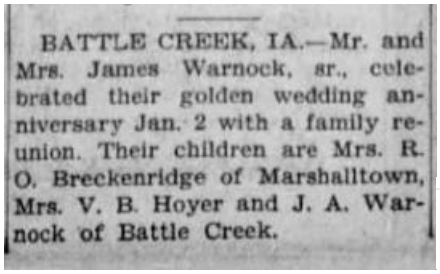

She was born August 27, 1899, on the family farm in Garfield Township. She went through school in Battle Creek.

In 1923, she married Verne Hoyer, son of the manager of the Farmer's Lumber Co. in Battle Creek,

In 1931, Ella & Verne moved to Battle Creek, Iowa, and Verne became the superintendent and coach. He had been to Iowa State College and graduated with a major in forestry, but no jobs were available so went into teaching. In 1935, he was offered a job in forestry by the government in Ohio Seven years later in 1942, the Civilian Conservation Corp (CCC) was disbanded, so the family moved to Cottage Grove, Oregon, where Verne opened an accounting and tax consulting firm. Verne passed away in 1963.

Survivors include two sons, Ivan and Lowry, and one daughter, Sharon; twelve grandchildren and sixteen great grandchildren.

Final Rites for Mrs. Rettie Warnock

Mrs. Rettie Warnock, pioneer resident of Battle Creek passed away Tuesday afternoon, August 11, at her home following an extended illness.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, August 14, 1953 in the Presbyterian Church with Rev. Carl Sinning of the Presbyterian church of Ida Grove officiating. The hymn "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" was sung by Don Goodenow, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Alvin Iverson. This was Mrs. Warnock's favorite hymn.

Mrs. Mabel Wolcott, Mrs. Minnie Paulsen and Mrs. Louis H. Smith arranged the floral tributes.

Burial was in Mount Hope cemetery under the direction of the Christensen Funeral Home.

Assisting at the house were Mrs. Maude Spotts, Mrs Otto Rogge, Mrs. Peter Martens, Mrs. S. Stokes, Mrs. F. O. McLain.

Among those from out of town in attendance at the funeral services were, L. L. Warnock, Mrs. C. D. Lassen, of Sioux City; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wills, Carroll; Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Stolley of Moville; Mrs. Nellie Driver, Mrs. Fred Driver of Ida Grove; Mrs. Anna Hendricks, Cedar Rapids; Mrs. Nellie Brown, Schaller and Mrs. Josie Beers of Los Angeles, Calif.

Margaretta Martha Warnock, better known to her relatives and friends as "Rettie" Warnock, was born January 25, 1961, at Carlisle, Pa., the youngest of the twelve children of Abraham and Mary Spotts. When she was four years old, her father moved his family to a farm six miles west of Carlisle, where she, with her brothers and sisters, attended the country school. Later she completed the teachers' course in the Millersville State Normal School and taught one year in the country school she had attended as a child.

In March, 1880, she came to Battle Creek, Iowa, with her parents and two of her brothers All of the family, with the exception of two sisters followed them here a short time later and made their homes in this community. At that time, all were members of the Lutheran Church in Carlisle, but in the summer of 1880 joined the First Presbyterian Church of Battle Creek. In this church she retained her membership and her interest throughout her life. Her faith, coupled with an indomitable will, sustained her through the troubled years, and made it possible for her to enjoy to the utmost the care-free years.

On January 26, 1882, she was married to James Warnock, both of whom lived to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary in their Battle Creek home. However in this same year, on August 17, Mr. Warnock received injuries from a fall that caused his death.

Three children were born to Mr and Mrs. Warnock while they were still living in their farm southwest of Battle Creek; Mrs. R. O. (Katherine) Breckenridge and James A. Warnock, both of Battle Creek, and Mrs. V. B. (Ella) Hoyer, of Cottage Grove, Ore. Other surviving members of the immediate family are two grandsons, Ivan and Lowry Hoyer, one granddaughter, Mrs. Bruce (Sharon) Bush, and five great-grandchildren, all of Cottage Grove and Eugene, Oregon.

Mrs. Warnock has been a member of Benevolence Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star since 1906 and served as Worthy Matron in the year 1917. She was a member of the Past Matrons' Club; a charter member of the Mite Society, now the Ladies Aid Society, the Women's Missionary Society and Senior Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church; a charter member of the Battle Creek Reading Circle, now the Woman's Club; and honorary member of the American Legion Auxiliary. She numbered among her friends the Mend-it Club and was often an honored guest at their meetings.

Cachet Cover To Honor Black Butte

COTTAGE GROVE—The South Lane Stamp Society of Cottage Grove has announced that it plans to issue, in conjunction with its sixth annual "Gold Cup Exhibition," scheduled for March 31, a special historical cachet cover commemorating anniversaries of events relating to the Black Butte, Ore., mercury mine, and the pioneer Black Butte Post Office, located at the mine.

The special cachet cover commemorates the resumption of full scale mining operation at the mine this spring, following 10 years of inactivity.

In addition, the cover will commemorate the 60th anniversary of the discovery of the Black Butte quicksilver deposits, and, with specific reference to the post office, the 20th anniversary of the appointment of Lillian E. Mills as postmistress. Mrs. Mills, as she is commonly known, will retire from service this year. Since 1937 the post office has been situated in her home at Black Butte, and is one of the few post offices in the Western United States still operating at a mine site.

The society states that the cover will bear a bi-color cachet of the newly reconstructed mercury distillation plant at the mine. Appropriate commemorative postage stamps will be affixed and hand cancelled by Mrs. Mills in her front room post office, which is located just a few hundred yards away from the distillation plant. A printed 'filler' or 'stuffer,' detailing the history of the Black Butte post office, and the mine, will be inserted inside each cover mailed. All covers will be mailed from Black Butte on April 1.

The stamp society, a non-profit organization, is issuing the historical covers as a public service for stamp collectors and interested historians. The commemorative cachet covers may be obtained by anyone sending 10 cents in coin, to cover the cost of handling, for each cover desired, to Ivan C. Hoyer, P. O. Box 365, Cottage Grove.

Wagons Are Available To Promote Centennial

COTTAGE GROVE — The covered wagons to be used in the 1959 revival of the Old Oregon Trail crossing, in observance of Oregon's statehood centennial, are available to rodeos, fairs and for public display in the state, according to Ivan C. Hoyer, who is acting as a clearing house for information here on the Oregon Trail trek.

The wagons, built by L. W. and Roy Brabham of Eugene, are loaned for a total of seven days for display or parade participation. The owners ask only reasonable care and that each party using the wagon in their public event provide transportation for the authentically constructed covered wagon.

To date the wagons have been shown at the Yoncalla and Cottage Grove rodeas and will be used in the forthcoming Emerald Empire Roundup, Eugene, Aug. 1-3 and at the State Fair.

April, 1959 will see some 20 covered wagons leave Independence, Mo., on a 2,200 mile stretch repeating the Old Oregon Trail trek. Communities desiring to participate in this journey are asked to contact "On To Oregon Cavalcade, Inc.," P.O. Box 471, Roseburg, for a trail kit and information.

Cachet Cover DueMining Centenary To Commemorate Bohemia District

COTTAGE GROVE (Special) In the wake of the new discovery of gold in the Bohemia mining district southeast of Cottage Grove and highlighting the 100th anniversary of the mining district, Ivan C. Hoyer, president of the South Lane Stamp society and originator of several historical Oregon mining cachets, said that a special souvenir envelope, or cachet cover, commemorating the centenary of the Bohemia mining district is being prepared for distribution as a service to stamp and cover collectors.

The covers will be hand-cancelled at Disston, Ore., on Dec. 10, 1958, the date approximating the beginning of winter, or "snowed-in" mining season. Disston is the last government post office operating within the old mining region.

Each envelope will bear a printed cachet, produced from an original hand drawing, illustrating colorful features of the Bohemia mining region. A printed stiffener, detailing the history of the district, and genuine gold ore samples taken from the Bohemia mines through the courtesy of Lane Minerals Inc., will be inserted inside each cover. Appropriate commemorative stamps will be used as postage.

The Bohemia mining district centennial cachet cover may be obtained for the price of 20 cents each, or three for 50 cents, in cash, from Bohemia Cachet, P.O. Box 207, Drain.

Pioneer Spirit Enlivens Trek

Continuous Sequence Of Thrills Marks Days Of Cavalcade Routine

What follows is a condensation of a report from the On to Oregon Cavalcade, written by the news director for the wagon train. The train was at a point some 125 miles east of Casper, Wyo., when the report was written. The Cavalcade is slated to reach Casper Sunday.

By IVAN C. HOYER

Having been with the Oregon Centennial covered wagon train for some two weeks, I find one factor becoming extremely dominant — one that would be surprising were it not for the fact that we sometimes wonder if it does still exist in modern times.

That factor is the true spirit of the pioneer, the sense of adventure and determination that is required to successfully bring a covered wagon train across the prairies and mountains of the West. The modern counterpart to the early pioneer, I've found, is really no different and is surprisingly the same.

In most every community, the people expressed concerned interest in the wagon train — and, above all, thought these wagoneers

Local Man Tells About Wagon Trip

By IVAN C. HOYER

Having been with the Oregon Centennial Covered Wagon Train some two weeks, I find one factor becoming extremely dominant, and one that would be surprising were it not for the fact that we sometimes wonder of it does not still exist in modern times. That is the true spirit of the pioneer, the sense of adventure and determination that is required to successfully bring a covered wagon train across the prairies and mountains of the West. The modern counterpart to the early pioneer, I've found, is really no different and is surprisingly the same. Mainly these 30 Oregonians representing the state on this monumental trek are just as well described as being "Real Human Beings."

Day after day the wagonmaster, "Tex" Serpa raises his arm for the wagons to roll, and, as Mrs. Walter Hilliard, wife of the farrier and resident of Myrtle Creek says, "You just can't get over the thrill of seeing the wagon train start in the morning, no matter how many times you have seen it." It touches a deep-seated emotional trigger, one that makes these people rise out of wet beds each day for 41 days, as there has been only one and a half days that it has not rained since being on the trek.

R. R. (Rudy) Roudebaugh of Drain, Ore., stated that when it rains hard "the canvas of the wagons keep out the heavy rain, but it's just like living in a constant mist of fog inside the wagon." And these modern pioneers live up to their hardiness to the fullest. They have had many offers of night's lodgings in hotels and motels, but have turned them all down, no matter the weather, "as it ain't the right thing to do."

Days of travel at an average rate of 20 miles per day has brought them to the most famous western landmark of them all—Old Fort Laramie, which is located at the extreme edge of the great plains some 125 miles east of Casper, Wyoming. This great fort once housed 7,000 troops and during 1850 was visited by over 50,000 Oregon-bound pioneers. It is presently a National monument and is being reconstructed by the National Park Service. Many of the buildings have been restored to their former state, and I prepared my news material in the administration office situated in the two-block long cavalry barracks.

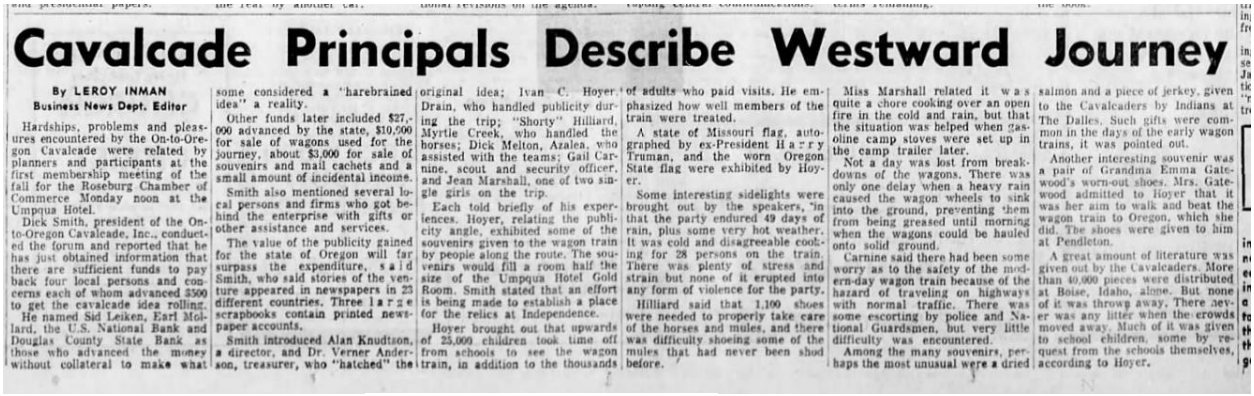

The wagons were camped on the actual site where numberless pioneer trains once stayed overnight. In this case the Oregon Centennial wagon train was met by a troop of the Fifth Wyoming Volunteer Cavalry from Cheyenne, who escorted the wagons to the safety of the fort and stood retreat at 5:30 p.m. to honor the past heroes of the old fort.

From Fort Laramie the wagon train will head into real rustic adventure as they begin the climb over the continental divide, passing through Casper and heading out across the north edge of the Red Desert, completely away from the traveled highways. Oregon's seven wagons are heading home, manned by the "toughest people" this part of the United States has known.

Cavalcade Principals Describe Westward Journey

By LEROY INMAN
Business News Dept. Editor

Hardships, problems and pleasures encountered by the On-to-Oregon Cavalcade were related by planners and participants at the first membership meeting of the fall for the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce Monday noon at the Umpqua Hotel.

Dick Smith, president of the On-to-Oregon Cavalcade, Inc., conducted the forum and reported that he has just obtained information that there are sufficient funds to pay back four local persons and concerns each of whom advanced $500 to get the cavalcade idea rolling.

He named Sid Leiken, Earl Mollard, the U.S. National Bank and Douglas County State Bank as those who advanced the money without collateral to make what some considered a "harebrained idea" a reality.

Other funds later included $27,000 advanced by the state, $10,500 for sale of wagons used for the journey, about $3,000 for sale of souvenirs and mail cachets and a small amount of incidental income.

Smith also mentioned several local persons and firms who got behind the enterprise with gifts or other assistance and services.

The value of the publicity gained for the state of Oregon will far surpass the expenditure, said Smith, who said stories of the venture appeared in newspapers in 23 different countries. Three large scrapbooks contain printed newspaper accounts.

Smith introduced Alan Knudtson, a director, and Dr. Verner Anderson, treasurer, who "hatched" the original idea; Ivan C. Hoyer, Drain, who handled publicity during the trip; "Shorty" Hilliard, Myrtle Creek, who handled the horses; Dick Melton, Azalea, who assisted with the teams; Gail Carnine, scout and security officer, and Jean Marshall, one of two single girls on the trip.

Each told briefly of his experiences. Hoyer, relating the publicity angle, exhibited some of the souvenirs given to the wagon train by people along the route. The souvenirs would fill a room half the size of the Umpqua Hotel Gold Room. Smith stated that an effort is being made to establish a place for the relics at Independence.

Hoyer brought out that upwards of 25,000 children took time off from schools to see the wagon train, in addition to the thousands of adults who paid visits. He emphasized how well members of the train were treated.

A state of Missouri flag, autographed by ex-President Harry Truman, and the worn Oregon State flag were exhibited by Hoyer.

Some interesting sidelights were brought out by the speakers, in that the party endured 49 days of rain, plus some very hot weather. It was cold and disagreeable cooking for 28 persons on the train. There was plenty of stress and strain but none of it erupted into any form of violence for the party.

Hilliard said that 1,100 shoes were needed to properly take care of the horses and mules, and there was difficulty shoeing some of the mules that had never been shod before.

Miss Marshall related it was quite a chore cooking over an open fire in the cold and rain, but that the situation was helped when gasoline camp stoves were set up in the camp trailer later.

Not a day was lost from breakdowns of the wagons. There was only one delay when a heavy rain caused the wagon wheels to sink into the ground, preventing them from being greased until morning when the wagons could be hauled onto solid ground.

Carnine said there had been some worry as to the safety of the modern-day wagon train because of the hazard of traveling on highways with normal traffic. There was some escorting by police and National Guardsmen, but very little difficulty was encountered.

Among the many souvenirs, perhaps the most unusual were a dried salmon and a piece of jerkey, given to the Cavalcaders by Indians at The Dalles. Such gifts were common in the days of the early wagon trains, it was pointed out.

Another interesting souvenir was a pair of Grandma Emma Gatewood's worn-out shoes. Mrs. Gatewood admitted to Hoyer that it was her aim to walk and beat the wagon train to Oregon, which she did. The shoes were given to him at Pendleton.

A great amount of literature was given out by the Cavalcaders. More than 40,000 pieces were distributed at Boise, Idaho, alone. But none of it was throwp away. There never was any litter when the crowds moved away. Much of it was given to school children, some by request from the schools themselves, according to Hoyer.

Wagon Trek Movie Now Available

The epic westward trek of the Oregon Centennial covered wagon train last year is now available on film to schools, civic and social groups without cost.

Entitled "Wagons West," the sound film documentary records the 20th century wagon train's memorable 2,050-mile journey from Independence, Mo., to Independence, Ore.

Ivan C. Hoyer, administrative director for On To Oregon Cavalcade, Inc., said the film was produced by New York Life Insurance Co., in cooperation with the Cavalcade organization, trek sponsor.

Driver of the lead wagon in the train, Ben Griffith, Salem, has a prominent role in the film.

COTTAGE GROVE—The Presbyterian church was the scene of a double-ring ceremony Sept. 6 when Miss Marlene Ann Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson, and Lowry Hoyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Hoyer, repeated wedding vows. The Rev. D. Hugh Penniston officiated.

Before the bride entered on the arm of her father, Robert Kelley sang "Through the Years," and he sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the close of the ceremony. Mrs. Carl Brandsness accompanied and played the wedding march.

The bride wore a waltz-length dress of nylon net over lace and satin. Her fingertip veil was held by a tiara of seed pearls. Her bouquet was stephanotis and her rhinestone earrings and necklace were a gift of the groom. For something old she wore her grandmother's wedding ring.

Miss Mary Jean Cochrane of Portland, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor wearing a waltz-length dress of yellow net. Her flowers were yellow chrysanthemums.

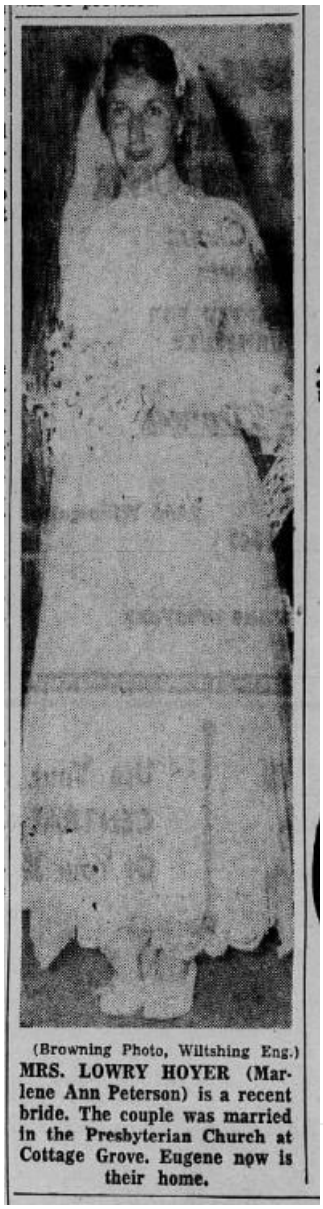

Ivan Hoyer, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Ushers were David Brandsness and Bruce Bush.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where the yellow and white color scheme was carried out. Mrs. K. M. Peterson of Klamath Falls cut the cake; Mrs. Herbert Cochrane presided at the coffee urn while Mrs. Bruce Bush, sister of the bridegroom, served punch. Assisting were Mrs. Carl Brandsness, Mrs. Bennett Newton, Mrs. Curtis Plunkett and Mrs. Palmer Solie of Klamath Falls. Miss Barbara Solie had charge of the guest book.

The bride wore a brown wool, two-piece dress with brown and white accessories when the couple left for a honeymoon to the Oregon Caves and California. They are at home at 2206-12 Patterson Drive in Eugene, where the groom is a junior at University of Oregon.

AFTER THE WEDDING Lt. and Mrs Lynn S. Hill return down the aisle after their wedding in Baumholder, Germany bride is the former Susan Jane Peterson of Klamath Falls, Ore. Her husband is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Earl S. Hill, Orinda.

Resident weds Oregon girl in Germany

Making their first home in Breschweiler, Germany, (near where the bridegroom is on army duty) are Lt. Lynn S. Hill, Usa, and his bride, the former Susan Jane Peterson, whose mid-summer wedding took place in St. Andrew's Episcopal mission in Baumholder. The bridegroom is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Earl S. Hill, Orinda, and the bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Peterson, Klamath Falls, Ore.

Army Chaplain Robert H. Hawn officiated at the nuptial ceremony and the bride was given in marriage by Maj. Paul A. Morsch as her father was unable to attend the wedding.

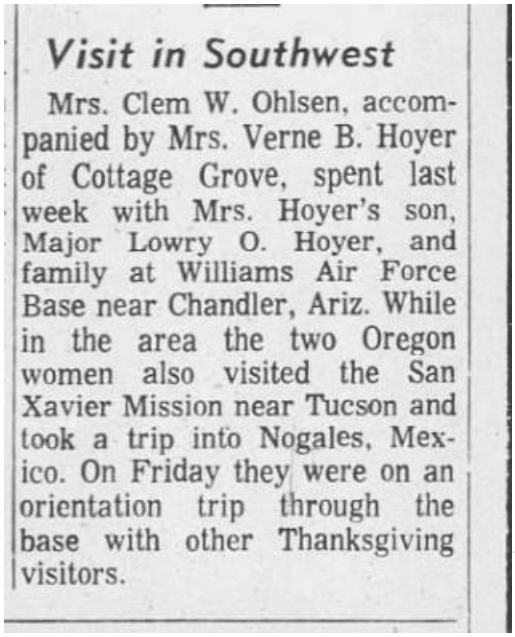

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Mrs. Lowry O. Hoyer, now living in Chaumont, France, where her husband is a captain in the U.S. Air Force. Best man duties were taken by Lt. Forrest Nelson of Portland, now stationed in Germany, and ushering were Lt. David McDonald, St. Louis, and Lt. Ronald Duck of Southwood, N. J. In connection with the ceremony Mrs. Ronald H. Smiley played organ numbers. Bouquets of white peonies decorated the chapel for the ceremony and similar flowers were used in the setting for the reception in the Officers' club of Baumholder.

Last June the bride was graduated from Oregon state university having majored in secretarial science, and she served as president of Phi Chi Theta, honorary society for women in business. The bridegroom is an alumnus of the same university, where his major was business administration, and he became a member of Sigma Pi fraternity. The couple went on a honeymoon trip through Southern Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France.

Susan's bridal gown was white silk organza, appliqued with lace; her shoulder length veil was held by a pearl tiara and she carried a bouquet of white carnations on a white prayer-book. Her attendant wore a dress of rose silk organza, designed with a full skirt, and she carried a cluster of pink peonies.

GLORY for Gang Green

'We went absolutely nuts,' says a fan, sending a champagne cork flying

ANDY NELSON / The Register-Guard

Oregon offensive tackle Steve Hardin is overcome by emotion on the sidelines after the Ducks' upset victory over the Arizona Wildcats at Autzen Stadium on Saturday.

By JANELLE HARTMAN
The Register-Guard

THEY DANCED ON the field and rattled the goal posts. They hugged strangers and blinked away tears of joy. And every few seconds, someone looked up at the sky and let out a primal roar.

"Roooose Booooowl," some of them dared to scream.

Moments earlier, as the Oregon Ducks' "Gang Green" defense held off the Arizona Wildcats in the final seconds of their PAC-10 Conference showdown Saturday, the 36,760 fans in the stands at Autzen Stadium — save for a thousand or so Arizona boosters — held their breath.

There were still 20 seconds on the clock, and Arizona had the ball. A lucky Hail Mary down the field and the party everyone was praying for would be over before it began.

But, for the second week in a row, the Oregon defense plucked off what could have been the opponent's game-winning pass. And a joyous crowd rushed onto the field to celebrate their team's 10-9 victory.

"I wasn't nervous at all, I was rockin' in the stands," said Matt Millar, a 19-year-old UO sophomore who'd painted his face green and yellow.

"The sun came out at the end, and it was destiny," Millar said. "Divine destiny."

"I thought we'd win, but I was still nervous," Millar's friend Steen Jones admitted. "It's hard to believe this is the same team that played at the beginning of the season."

One of the smaller fans, 5-year-old Eric Revell, walked onto the field of merry-makers with his mom, who said they haven't missed a game this season. The boy grinned from inside a football helmet that completed his tiny UO player's outfit. "Go Ducks," he said with a huge smile.

Another youngster, 11-year-old Lief Erickson, carried through the crowd a handmade sign that he and friend drew earlier this week. "Where's the plane to Pasadena?" the green-and-yellow sign asked.

"It was a really exciting game, especially the interception," Erickson said.

At tailgate parties across the parking lot, fans popped open champagne bottles against the happy background noise of the KPNW-AM post-game radio show.

"We went absolutely nuts at the end," Colleen Donnelly said as she sent a champagne bottle's cork flying into the air. "Touchdown!" she yelled.

Donnelly and her husband, Bob, are charter members of the "Gang Green" club, a group of die-hard alumni who sit together in section 12 in sweatshirts that read "Gang Green: A Painful Experience."

The pain, Gang Green boosters explain with smiles, is felt by the opposing team's offense.

Bob Donnelly, who managed the Oregon football when he was in college in the mid-1960s, said a "painful experience" wasn't the first slogan the boosters thought up for the shirts.

"Originally, it was, 'Gang Green: It's Nasty and It Kills.' But we thought that was a little much," Donnelly said. "There's enough violence today. So we thought this was a nice compromise."

Donnelly said he's not ready to holler "Rose Bowl" just yet. On Saturday, he wanted to savor the moment.

GLORY

"You take it one game at a time and you have fun with it," he said. "If you keep winning, then the party lasts longer."

He wasn't the only fan hesitant to join the Pasadena chant.

"I'll say what I say after every game," Sid Moore of Hillsboro said. "The biggest game of the year is next week."

"I'll say 'bowl game' but I'm not going to say 'Rose Bowl' yet," said Moore's friend, Lowry Hoyer, a member of famed UO coach Len Casanova's 1951 football team and a fan who hasn't missed a home game in 17 years.

As Hoyer lived it up with friends and family at a parking-lot celebration, he said he was overwhelmed by the crowd noise — he'd never heard fans scream "DEE-FENSE" louder than they did Saturday — but he was disappointed by the stadium's 5,000 empty seats.

"You people want a winning program, you got to support it," Hoyer said.

In the student section, eight young men came to the game with their chests painted green, each with a yellow letter painted on top of the green. Together they spelled "ROSE BOWL." They said they were on a mission to get the home crowd excited.

If destiny prevailed Saturday, the sunshine at the end of the gray afternoon wasn't the only sign. Members of the 1958 Oregon Rose Bowl team, the last Duck team to go to Pasadena, were among the throngs of cheering supporters.

Watching the game in the third quarter, when the score was still 9-0 in favor of Arizona, the 1958 players said they were impressed by the skill of this year's young Duck team.

"This is a fine group of young men," said Jim Shanley, who was a halfback on the 1958 team and scored the only Duck touchdown in the game they lost 10-7. "They're dedicated and they prove that by how they play."

If the Ducks make it to Pasadena this year, it will be a dream come true for them, just like it was in 1958, the players said. "It was the thrill of a lifetime," tackle John Willener said.

Arizona fans, who expected an easy road to the Rose Bowl with a win over Oregon on Saturday, were tough to spot after the game. But at one parking lot party, a group of Duck fans mingled with four friends who came to town to cheer for the Wildcats.

The Duck fans — whose license plate read "WEBDUX" (We Be Ducks) — taunted their visitors with a sack of kitty litter and a box of Purina Cat Chow.

"I'm soooo happy for the fans here," Arizona supporter Dick Moreno said, his voice oozing with friendly sarcasm as he shook a yellow pompon in a reporter's face. "They need a victory like this. They have so few things to celebrate."

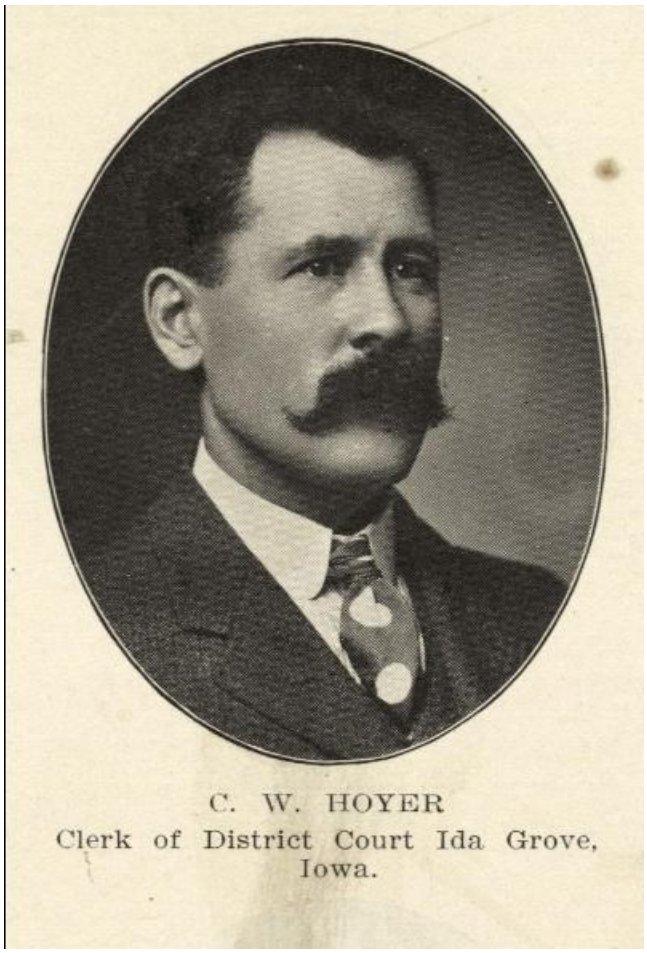

Changing his tone, Moreno said losing a game is OK when you're surrounded by friends.

"If I was ever going to lose a game, this is the way to do it," he said. "With friends."
